SELL FISH TO PUBLIC AT COST

Boston American Chain of Stores Open for Business Tomorrow

Food at cost!

Fish at five cents a pound.

Haddock, cod, Boston bluefish, whiting and other varieties selling in local retail stores at from eight to twenty cents a pound, and in suburban stores at much higher figures, will be placed on sale at five cents a pound tomorrow in the Boston American Fish Stores.

Spurred on by the statements of Alden A. Mills that fish can be offered to the consumer at 5 cents a pound, a chain of stores is being opened by the Boston American to see that the public gets fish at this low price.

Owing to the short time in which preparation could be made for this public benefit, the American today announces the opening tomorrow of but four stores.

Other stores in other sections will be opened at once, however.

Watch the American for announcement of these "fish at cost" stores.

The stores opened tomorrow will be located as follows:

Corner of Shawmut avenue and Milford street in the South End. Within a few seconds' walk of the Dover street station of the Boston Elevated road.

Corner of Broadway and Dorchester street, South Boston, at No. 600 Broadway, within a second's walk of the main Broadway sailing station.

No. 709 Main street, Cambridge, within a second's walk of Lafayette square, Cambridge.

Poplar street, Roslindale.

Preparations are being made to open similar stores at once in East Boston, Chelsea, Somerville, Brighton, Brookline Village, the North End and the West End. Quincy, Lawrence, Lowell, Worcester, Brockton, Providence and Pawtucket are among the

BEST IN BOSTON FOR YANKEE DIVISION

When the Yankee Division comes sailing back home—

Watch the royal welcome it will get in Boston.

It will be like the old song:

"The Best in the House Was None Too Good for Riley."

That's what they were saying today at army headquarters on Chauncy street. Definite plans are hardly in shaping yet because the time when the 26th Division will arrive, or begin to arrive, cannot be known until further announcement from Washington.

But they are beginning to figure already at the Chauncy street office on what they do know.

For instance, Captain C. H. Pillsbury of the Quartermaster's Corps reckons that thirty-seven trains—count 'em, thirty-seven—will be needed to transport the Yankee Division from the dock to Camp Devens. That refers to transportation for officers, enlisted men and baggage.

Transportation Agent F. J. McNamara will be ready with these trains when the division arrives.

Meanwhile the headquarters officers are talking about the welcome and the warmth of it which will be given the "Y. Ds" when they do get here.

GREGORY'S SUCCESSOR NAMED

A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania New Head of Justice Department

Washington, Feb. 27.—A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, will be the next Attorney-General of the United States. It was announced today at the executive offices at the White House that he had been named by President Wilson to succeed Thomas W. Gregory.

Gregory's resignation takes effect March 4. Sherman L. Whipple of Boston had been prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Gregory.

Alexander Mitchell Palmer is a native of Pennsylvania and a Quaker. He was born at Moosehead, May 4, 1872, son of Samuel and Caroline Palmer. He was graduated with honors from Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania, in 1891, and was admitted to the bar in 1893. He practised law with John D. Storm until the latter's death in 1901.

In November, 1898, Mr. Palmer was married to Roberta Bartlett Dixon, of Easton, Md. Since the death of his partner he has practiced independently. He was elected to Congress from the 26th Pennsylvania District in 1891, and remained for six years. In April, 1915, he was appointed judge of the United States Court of Claims and resigned the following September.

His appointment as property custodian by President Wilson under the "trading with the enemy" act took place October 22, 1917. He is a member of the Society of Friends, and of the Pennsylvania Bar Association. His home is in Stroudsburg.

NURSE DECORATED BY BAKER FOR BRAVERY

Washington, Feb. 27.—For "conspicuous heroism under fire," Miss Beatrice McDonald, a reserve army nurse, was awarded a distinguished service cross by Secretary of War Baker this afternoon. The presentation was made in the secretary's office in the presence of many members of the general staff. Miss McDonald, who was stationed at a British casualty hospital, stuck to her post during a night raid by the Germans, caring for the wounded until she was struck down by a fragment of a shell, losing the sight of one eye.

Consumer Hit Coming and Going by Gas Trust

Here is a table showing how much more the consumer pays today for gas, compared to what he paid before the war. It also shows the decrease in gas units for mainly heating power.

It takes 37 gas units to equal the light and heat produced by one candle. The table shows a loss of almost two candlepower, while the price shows an increase of 25 per cent.

BEFORE THE WAR.

Consumer received in gas units 585 B. T. U. (British Thermal Unit).

Consumer paid 80 cents per 1,000 feet.

AT PRESENT.

Consumer receives approximately 528 B. T. U.

Consumer pays $1.00 per 1,000 feet.

'SUFF' PLEADS GUILTY IN HOPE OF SENTENCE

"If you plead guilty the Judge will fine you one cent and then somebody will be sure to pay your fine and you'll be released whether you like it or not."

This statement, alleged to have been made as a "tip" by a friend, is reported to have induced Frances Fowler, suffragette, to plead not guilty today before Chief Justice Bolster in the Municipal Court. The charge was sauntering and loitering.

Miss Fowler was one of the suffragettes arrested on Monday in front of the State House. Like her sister pickets she was eager to be a "martyr" to the cause.

Her case was placed on file without a finding.

In a statement issued from the National Woman's Party headquarters, No. 9 Park street, the proceedings against the suffragettes were characterized as "extraordinary." A message from the Michigan branch of the organization was received today praising Mrs. Alice Paul and the patrol, one of those arrested, and comparing the suffragettes with those who took part in the "glorious Boston party" of 1770.

"SPLIT SWITCH" TIES UP TRAFFIC 45 MINUTES

Due to a "split switch" at Trinity Crossing, Copley square, traffic was tied up today on Back Bay, Brookline and Jamaica Plain lines for forty-five minutes. The accident took place at 11:06. By 11:50, when the disabled car was towed away by a wrecking wagon, more than a score of cars had collected on Huntington avenue.

HOSPITAL DEATH IS CAUSED BY WRONG DRUG

The authorities are investigating the death of Mrs. Jennie Rosen at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Mrs. Rosen was the daughter of Charles M. Warren of Dorchester, probation officer at the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court.

Medical Examiner George H. Magrath has performed an autopsy and will file his report with District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier.

MISTAKE, SAYS EXAMINER.

Dr. Magrath said today that Mrs. Rosen's death was the result of a mistake, the administration of the wrong drug in the belief that Mrs. Rosen was receiving what the physician had ordered.

Dr. Herbert Howard, superintendent of the hospital, says nobody knows just how it happened.

In the absence on leave of official statement it has been assumed that the error occurred in the pharmaceutical or drug-dispensing department of the hospital.

Mrs. Rosen died Friday night. She was under treatment for pneumonia. Dr. Magrath said today:

"There is no mystery about Mrs. Rosen's death. It was the result of a mistake, purely and simply. It was a case where the wrong drug was administered, in the belief that the patient was receiving what the physician had prescribed. In my belief it was purely accidental.

"I performed an autopsy and am making a chemical analysis. The re-

DEMAND REPEAL OF LAW

Legislators Denounce "Sliding Scale" as "Fraud"; Poorer Gas at Higher Price

The "extortionate charges" for gas by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company were stigmatized as "fraud" and "wholesale robbery" by Councillor Lewis R. Sullivan and Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, speaking in support of Mr. Sullivan's bill to repeal the sliding scale act under which the Boston company is now operating.

"The manner in which the gas company expects to go on paying dividends while continually feeding the public is the greatest money-making scheme on earth today," declared Councillor Sullivan.

"They have one of the best named names in existence. They can't lose. The Boston Consolidated Gas Company goes right along paying 7 per cent. dividends in spite of the fact that they have boosted the price 25 per cent. to the consumer. Can you beat it?" declared Mr. Sullivan in an interview following a hearing at the State House yesterday.

PRICE HIGH, QUALITY LOW.

"Your price of gas has increased. The quality of your gas has decreased rather. The Boston Consolidated goes right along paying the same old dividends! It's a wonderful system—for the stockholders! And the public always pays the bills.

"The gas company is operating under an act of the Legislature which permits it to pay 7 per cent. more dividends per annum for every 5 cents it reduces the price of gas to the consumer. Instead of reducing the price of gas, the Boston Consolidated has jacked it up 20 cents per thousand cubic feet during the past year.

SHOULD WORK BOTH WAYS.

"When the price of gas was 80 cents a thousand the gas company paid 7 per cent. dividends. They cannot increase their dividends unless they reduce the price of gas. Today we are paying $1 a thousand for gas of an inferior quality. Why shouldn't the Boston Consolidated be compelled to reduce their dividends 1 per cent. for every 5 cents they increase the price, just as they are permitted to increase their dividends for every 5 cents they reduce it?

HERMAN L. BARNEY, alleged bandit leader, arrested today as suspected slayer of Policeman Deininger.

MARCH 4 SPEECH BY WILSON IN NEW YORK

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 27.—President Wilson will make one more public speech before he goes abroad—in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, on the night of March 4. He will go directly from the opera house aboard the George Washington, sailing for France early on the morning of March 5.

This announcement came from the White House today, following the President's dinner with the members of the two congressional committees on foreign affairs and relations last night.

Former President Taft will be a speaker at the same meeting, it was announced this afternoon.

Both sides of the League of Nations controversy still have their biggest cards to play.

This was the conviction at the Cap-

BARNEY IS HELD AS SLAYER

Will Face Court Charged With Murder of Policeman Deininger on February 13

Herman L. Barney, also known as Louis Whittemore of Arlington, the leader of the auto bandits charged with slaying Patrolman Charles E. Deininger of the Hanover street station in a Chelsea garage February 13, was arrested today in New York.

Barney disappeared shortly after the murder of the patrolman. Since that time four others, Marion O'Brien of Columbus avenue, said to be Barney's sweetheart; Joseph P. Burley, twenty-three, of Bullard street, Dorchester; Joseph Columa, forty-one, chauffeur, and John F. Dillon, twenty-one, of Rush street, Somerville, have been apprehended and are being held on a murder charge in Charles street Jail.

Barney, said to be one of the most desperate men the Boston police ever had to deal with and known as the leader of the band of auto thieves, was arrested by Captain Matthew J. Dailey and Sergeant John M. Anderson of the Hanover street station today in New York. He was brought here today and will be charged with the patrolman's murder.

The crime for which Barney was arrested was one of the most cruel in police annals. For months a band of auto thieves had been stealing cars about the city, disguising them and selling them in other cities.

Deininger, with Patrolman William J. Shea of the Hanover street station and other officers had been assigned to a Chelsea garage rented by Albert L. Pardi of Revere at No. 11 Winthrop road, Chelsea, the night of February 12.

About 8:30 in the evening the auto thieves drove up to the garage in which Patrolmen Deininger and Shea were concealed. Peering through the window they saw inside an auto they had stolen. As they opened the door Deininger stepped up to arrest them. The man nearest him, who the police now charge was Barney, fired at the policeman point blank, the bullet passing through Deininger's right lung. The patrolman died shortly after.

GENERAL STRIKE NEAR IN SAXONY

Berlin, Feb. 26, via London, Feb. 27.—A general strike is expected [illegible] throughout Saxony as a result of the communist disorders. The people of Saxony are in strong sympathy with the Bavarians. All of the principal railway lines have been suspended. The Saxon Parliament will meet Thursday. The strikers will demand the retirement of the present German government and the dissolution of the National Assembly.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS MUST MAIL VOUCHERS TO DRAW $60 BONUS

DECEASED MEN'S HEIRS BARRED FROM BENEFIT

Washington Headquarters, Soldiers' Service Bureau, Feb. 27.—For the information of the thousands of discharged soldiers and those to be discharged hereafter who will be entitled to the $60 bonus provided for in the revenue bill, now in effect, the Washington Headquarters of the Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Hearst newspapers has procured the following official statement as to the precise steps to be taken by the discharged soldier and the manner in which the money will be paid to those to be discharged in the future.

"Section 24th of the revenue act approved February 24, 1919, authorizes the payment of a bonus of $60 to officers, soldiers, field clerks and nurses of the army upon honorable separation from active service by discharge, resignation or otherwise. This bonus is not payable to the heirs or representatives of any deceased soldier.

"Those who are discharged hereafter will receive this bonus on the same roll or voucher upon which they are paid their final pay.

"Those who have been discharged and have received their final pay without $60 bonus, should write a letter to the zone finance officer, Lemon Building, Washington, D. C., stating their service since April 6, 1917, the date of last discharge and their present address to which they desire their bonus checks to be sent, and enclosing with this letter their discharge certificate or military order for discharge and both, if both were issued.

"Upon the receipt by the zone finance officer, Washington, D. C., of this information and the soldier's discharge certificate, this officer will cause checks to be drawn and mailed to the claimants in the order which their claims were received by him. If discharge certificate will be returned to the soldier with the check.

"It is estimated that at least one million and a quarter persons have been discharged from the service who are entitled to the benefits of this act and while payments will be made as expeditiously as practicable, it will manifestly take considerable time to write and mail this many checks."

The Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Boston American has been established for the purpose of giving information to the soldiers and sailors of the U. S. Army and Navy. Answers to questions as to location of the various units appear every day in this column. Prominent attorneys are always ready and anxious to clear up difficulties of a legal nature. Any unemployed enlisted man will be given the help of the department toward securing a position, and the discharge of soldiers because of distress among the home folks will be facilitated.

The department is doubly efficient, as it is not operated as a question and answer column, but is working in connection with similar bureaus in Hearst's New York American, Atlanta Georgian, Chicago Herald and Examiner, San Francisco Examiner and Los Angeles Examiner. The headquarters is in Washington.

Any suggestion for broadening the scope of the bureau will be gladly received.

Petition to the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy to Send Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Home with Six Months' Pay

Sign this petition, get your friends to sign it, and forward it to the Boston American, 80 Summer st., Boston, Mass.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War:
To the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy:

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers, sailors and marines who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge, also, that you obtain the necessary authority to pay these men their military wages for six months, or for some sufficient period after their discharge from the army until they can obtain useful and remunerative employment.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

(Signed)

BANDITS HOLD UP CAMBRIDGE STORE MAN

Three Arrests Made After Attack on J. T. Connor Employe; Good Police Work

Early today Frank Coakley, forty-five years old, manager of the Inman square branch of the John T. Connor Company in Cambridge, was attacked by three men while crossing the Public Library grounds to his home at No. 188 Harvard street, Cambridge.

He carried $56 in a leather bag at the time, but before the thugs could get it, Patrolman Thomas F. Kearns of Station 1 appeared on the scene and captured one of them, who gave his name as Martin M. Jugowska, seventeen, of Leverett street, Boston. The other two were later arrested in the North End by Lieutenant Ted Leahy of Station 1, Cambridge. They gave their names as John Sassa, sixteen, of Morton street, and Joseph Sica, nineteen, of Portland street, Boston.

Coakley was badly beaten up and relieved of his watch and chain, but these were found later, presumably dropped or thrown away by the fleeing thugs. The funds which he carried are safe.

The three men appeared in the Cambridge court today and were held for the Grand Jury in $2,000 bonds.

MEMORIAL STADIUM IS PLANNED FOR MELROSE

A memorial stadium field for Melrose athletics is being advocated by several organizations of citizens. The city voted for an enclosed athletic field several years ago, but none has ever been laid out. It is now proposed to grade land at Tremont street and the Lynn Fells parkway at a cost of from $10,000 to $12,000 and to build a stadium of cement similar to the Harvard Stadium, but with a smaller capacity, dedicating the field to the soldiers of the present war.

PARISH OF ST. JAMES PLANNING IRISH NIGHT

Under the direction of Rev. Robert E. Lee of St. James Church, Harrison avenue, preparations are being made for the annual Irish Night concert, an annual affair. This year the concert will be held at Franklin Union Hall, corner of Berkeley and Appleton streets, Tuesday evening, March 18, at 8 o'clock.

MINISTER FINED $100 FOR DEFYING INFLUENZA ORDER

Murray, Ky., Feb. 27.—For holding church services in defiance of the influenza ban, the Rev. Boyce Taylor has been fined $100. The Rev. Taylor, who is a Baptist preacher, declared the court had no authority to close churches and said he would hold services as usual. He was warned that if he did so he and all who attended would be arrested.

Belleau Wood's Hero Held as Deserter from Navy

New York, Feb. 27.—Private Cornelius Fiske of the famous Sixth Marines, a hero of Belleau Wood, Soissons, and Chateau-Thierry, was brought here on the transport President Grant, a prisoner charged with desertion from the United States navy.

He was sixteen when he enlisted in the navy. It is said, but could not get any action so he "quit" and joined the marines.

Captain J. F. Dargan of Boston, his company commander, will represent him at the court-martial.

"The family is in possession of all the facts. It is an unusual and unfortunate case. Mrs. Rosen was extremely low with pneumonia and might have died anyway. The probability, however, is that what was given her hastened her end.

Superintendent Howard said:

"In all my thirty-five years' association with hospitals it never happened before.

"I have told what I know to the authorities. I do not think it proper for me to discuss it while it is in the hands of others."

"We take every precaution in our pharmaceutical department to guard against mistakes of this kind. I am sure I do not know and, so far as I know, nobody knows just how it happened."

TRYING TO FIX BLAME.

He was asked whether the person to blame had been discharged from the hospital. He replied:

"I do not know who is to blame. That is what the authorities are trying to determine."

"Is the person employed in the pharmaceutical department at the time of the mistake still there?"

"You will have to see the authorities on that," answered Dr. Howard; "they know all that I know."

He was asked what protection the public had against repetition of such a case. He replied:

"Only this—that we take every known precaution in dispensing drugs and chemicals. In all my experience it never happened before. So far as lies in my power it will never happen again."

Frank Warren, brother of Mrs. Rosen, said:

"There has been a grave mistake somewhere in connection with my sister's death. The matter of fixing responsibility rests with Dr. Magrath and the other authorities."

HOWE DIRECTS HARVARD FRESHMAN RED BOOK

William D. Howe of New York has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Harvard freshman Red Book. Officers to the number of 100 are to arrange for the activities of the yearling class. Louis H. BONUS PETITION HAS 200,000 SIGNERS

New England Demands That Discharged Service Men Receive Six Months' Pay

The 200,000 mark was reached today in signatures to the Boston American's petition for six months' pay for soldiers, sailors and marines and with hundreds more continuing to pour in this mark will soon be left far behind.

This number eclipses by over 110,000 the largest number of names previously obtained on a petition circulated in the State of Massachusetts or New England and is proof positive of the all compelling popularity of this patriotic plan. It indicates that the next few days will witness a rush of signatures which will quickly carry the petition in numerical strength up to the quarter million mark are freely made.

The six months' pay plan should not be confused with the $60 bonus provided for in the revenue bill just passed. It has nothing to do with it and the latter is not a substitute for it.

$2,000,000 SUPPORT PLAN.

The six months' pay plan originated and is backed by the Hearst newspapers, supported by over three million persons in the United States, and by over 200,000 in New England, is shortly to be presented to the Secretaries of War and the Navy and will eventually, it is expected, be placed before Congress to show the overwhelming sentiment of the country for it.

Meantime enthusiasm for it is increasing. One woman, Mrs. Thomas J. Martin of No. 137 Marcella street, Roxbury, declares that if the government had to float another Liberty Loan to raise the money for it, the bonds would sell like hotcakes.

Mrs. Martin had two brothers in the service. One paid the supreme price at the battle of the Argonne Woods and another is expected home in March. Both boys were in the 27th Division with New York regiments.

Women in various New England cities and towns are doing a tremendous amount of work in securing endorsements for the petition. They are obtaining signatures at places of organizations and are doing much personal work among their friends.

In forwarding the first three signatures from Green Harbor, Jennie A. Phillips writes that everybody in the village is eager to see the heroes rewarded.

BACKED BY PAWTUCKET CLUB.

All the women of the sorting department of the Tubular Rivets & Stud Company of Wollaston, nearly 100 in all, signed the petition when it was presented to them yesterday.

The Novelty Park Social Club of Pawtucket, R. I., not only endorsed the plan, but sent in five several hundred names which they intend to add to the thousands already signed.

The sum which the soldier is the very best thing that can be done for him, sailors and marines, and that is the opinion of Ida J. Stickney, another volunteer worker, of Lynnfield, N. H., whose son is in the 26th Division. She has a nephew in the 26th Division.

CENSORSHIP ON MAIL BY BRITISH PROTESTED

New York, Feb. 27. — Many New York business men are joining in the protest against British censorship of commercial communications between the United States and Holland. Business interests of this country have already been greatly interfered with in their trade, through delaying both cablegrams and letters, it is claimed. A protest has been sent to Postmaster-General Burleson.

BRAVE TAUNTON CHAPLAIN RESCUES WOUNDED UNDER FIRE ON MARNE

FATHER CONATY HOME

Back From France With Two Wound Stripes and Distinguished Service Cross

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 27.—Three more belated transports from the great fleet caught in last week's middle-Atlantic storm arrived today and landed 4,106 officers and enlisted men, 2,000 of them sick or wounded. The vessels were the Wilhelmina, the Caserta and the Ulua.

The Wilhelmina was virtually a hospital ship, 83 officers and 1,378 men of her total of 1,709 being listed as either sick or wounded.

Of the 1,697 troops on board the Caserta, 45 officers and 1,496 men were from the 63rd Coast Artillery Regiment, and 65 were casual officers. The Ulua's contingent was made up mostly of negro fighters from the 325th Field Signal Battalion; 317th French Motor Battery, 317 Supply Train and 350th New York Casualty Company.

With two wound stripes on his right arm and the distinguished service cross on his breast, Chaplain Charles Conaty of Taunton, Mass., smilingly walked down the gangplank of the Wilhelmina. He was averse to talking of the feat that earned him the decoration, but from a returning soldier who knew the priest the story was obtained.

Father Conaty was a chaplain with the 111th Infantry of the Twenty-eighth Division on July 18, when the second battle of the Marne began. The Twenty-eighth was at that time a few miles east of Chateau Thierry. For three days the Germans had been attacking the entire line on the east bank of the Marne until the concerted attack by Foch on the morning of July 18th relieved the pressure. The offensive then switched to the south and in part of the forward push a small detachment of the 111th Infantry was cut off in an old orchard by German machine guns.

Several members of the detachment succeeded in getting back to safety, but it was impossible to aid the wounded to the American lines.

That night Father Conaty raised a small volunteer force and made several expeditions to the cemetery, returning with many wounded despite the severe enemy fire. Daylight prevented further attempts to aid the isolated groups of American wounded, but on the succeeding night the chaplain and his rescue party again went at their task, finally bringing them all to safety.

FOUR CHINAMEN HELD FOR HAVING OPIUM

Lee Goon of Beach street, Chin Sing of High street, East Dedham, and Yee Wah and Wing Kew of Oxford street were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes today charged with having smoking opium in their possession. Goon was held in $500 and the others in $200 each for a hearing on March 10. The Chinamen were taken into custody by Internal Revenue Office Scanlon and Special Agent Truxton.

MANY ARE KILLED IN HELSINGFORS BATTLE

ADVISES IRISH TO KEEP FAITH IN WILSON

Washington, Feb. 27.—"No Irish-man nor Irish-American should lose faith in President Wilson," declared Representative Charles M. Stedman of North Carolina today following his attendance at last night's dinner with President Wilson.

"The President," said Stedman, "said nothing last night that would indicate that he would abandon or even slight Ireland's plea for self-determination. If he has, I'd have been the first one to demand an explanation. He did say last night something that would indicate that the Irish cause had been won, but I regard that as favorable to Ireland. No news is good news."

The speech was brought up, said Redman, by Representative Ragsdale, Democrat, of South Carolina, who is said to have asked the President, "How about Ireland?"

The President's reply, described by Stedman as "just what you would expect from a shrewd statesman," was:

"Ireland is a part of the British empire. It presents a strong municipal argument. I have hopes for amicable settlement."

Will You Join 999 Friends of France in Boston?

Miss Dorothy Cordley of New York in a letter from France said:

"I have seen people living in quarries; people living like rats in cellars. I have seen villages with not one wall standing, and not one sign of life; yet, as we approach, there appear shivering, half-starved women and children who have returned to their sacred hearthstones to find—nothing. They have no houses, nothing to build with, no beds, no blankets, no food, no stove, nothing to cook with. The French need our help—all we can give them."

By FLOYD MacGRIFF,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Feb. 27.—In the sanctuary of England's honored dead, Westminster Abbey, where kings, statesmen and poets lie in their eternal sleep, there assembled today the most notable personages in the British Empire to witness the marriage of Princess Patricia of Connaught to Commander Alexander Ramsey of the royal navy. It is the most brilliant social event of the reign of King George and it was the first royal wedding (for Princess Patricia is related to the royal family) in the abbey in 800 years.

More than one precedent was broken in the ceremony. In the first place it is a case of royalty marrying a commoner.

ABBEY WAS FILLED.

The interest in the marriage was not confined to Great Britain; it was world-wide. For all peoples know the beautiful girl who could have married in the family of a king if she had wished it, but who chose a commoner instead.

There was a tremendous crowd in the abbey. Among the most conspicuous of the visitors were King George, Queen Mary, Dowager Queen Alexandra, Princess Mary, ex-King Manuel of Portugal, former Queen Amelie of Portugal; Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the former American ambassador to England; Lord and Lady Decies, Major-General John Biddle, commander of the American troops; Sir David and Lady Beatty and practically all of the diplomats in London.

The court is in mourning for Prince John, youngest son of King George, but it was temporarily waived.

The ceremony was conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, highest ecclesiastic in Great Britain. It took place at noon.

The scene in the abbey was most vivid. The interior of the stone old church was filled with flowers and further color was lent by the gorgeous gowns of the women. The Irish Guards Whitehall to the abbey was lined with a guard of honor troops from the Princess Patricia's own regiment of Canada.

WORE VELVET GOWN.

The wedding gown worn by the Princess was of brocht panne velvet and it fell on long lines like those seen in the famous picture of Florentine ladies, where Dante met Beatrice. The royal court train was of cloth of silver, richly embroidered. The Princess' veil was arranged in novel fashion and was made of rare Brussels lace. It formerly belonged to Queen Charlotte and had been worn by a dame in one corner. It was a gift from Dowager Lady Rhondda.

As the bride came to the abbey the Princess wore a long cloak of the same brocade as her wedding gown, lined with white fur. Her collar was of Canadian fox.

As for jewels the Princess wore pearls, with a large diamond made of oval brooch.

The Princess is an honorary colonel of the Princess Patricia Light Infantry of Canada and the men stood rigidly at salute as she passed them.

RECEIVED MANY PRESENTS.

Thousands of persons, nearly half royalty or closely related to royalty, gazed in admiration as the Princess walked down the nave of the historic old church upon the arm of her father.

The Archbishop of Canterbury was assisted in the ceremonies by impressively robed ecclesiastics.

Following the ceremony, rice was thrown, but the newly-weds received enough presents to stock a castle. They will live modestly and will retain only two automobiles.

The honeymoon will be spent quietly in the country.

The wedding came as the culmination of a delightful romance which the Princess followed the example of her aunt, the Duchess of Argyle, and cousins, the Duchess of Fife, in marrying outside of royal blood.

URGES $1,000 RAISE FOR BAY STATE SALONS

Frances J. Finneran, president of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, declared today before a committee on Public service at the State House that the representatives do far more work than do members of Congress and are entitled to a salary increase. At present members of the House receive $1,000 a year. Finneran would have them receive $2,000.

LABOR AGAINST REPEAL OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

Washington, Feb. 27.—American Labor will exert its utmost efforts to prevent the repeal of the daylight saving law, Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation of Labor, announced today. The federation is behind the daylight saving proposition, he said, because it means "greater comfort, safety and health to workers."

TOLL RATE CASE ARGUED BEFORE FULL BENCH

Public Service Commission Seeks to Have Telephone Co. Cancel New Figures

Chief Justice Rugg and Associate Justices Loring, Braley, Crosby and Pierce, constituting the full bench of the Supreme Court, today heard arguments in the case of the Public Service Commission asking that the court compel the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company to cancel a schedule of toll rates within the limits of the Commonwealth established by order of Postmaster-General Burleson.

The real question involved is whether the resolution did not reserve to the States the right to regulate telephone rates within each State. The Public Service Commission, acting under advice of the Attorney-General's department, interprets the resolution to mean that the commission has jurisdiction over toll rates between points entirely within the Commonwealth, and that the Postmaster-General has not the power to establish a schedule unjust to the public, which has no remedy to recover back money paid for excessive rates if it should be determined that the order of the Postmaster-General is illegal.

The Commonwealth was represented by Assistant Attorney-General William H. Hitchcock, and the telephone company by James N. Clark, Charles M. Bracelen of New York appeared as special counsel for the Postmaster-General, and United States District Attorney Thomas J. Boynton looked after the interests of the Federal government.

In discussing the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth over the regulation of intrastate telephone rates after action by the President under the joint resolution of Congress of July 16, 1918, Mr. Hitchcock said that "Obviously Congress could not authorize the taking of these systems by the Federal government solely for revenue purposes even during time of war."

It was explained by Mr. Hitchcock that Congress especially recognized the police regulations given to the States by the federal constitution, and that such rights were reserved to the States by the joint resolution providing for the taking over of telegraph and telephone companies. In considering the history of the resolution, Mr. Hitchcock asked the court to examine the language of the railroad control act, which language Mr. Hitchcock said had been followed in the resolution respecting telegraph and telephone companies.

Mr. Clark for the telephone company contended that the pending proceedings against it could not be maintained because the company was entirely within the control of the United States government, and had not the right to independent action.

Since midnight of July 31, 1918, Mr. Clark said, the New England Telephone Company had ceased to be a public service corporation within the jurisdiction of the laws of Massachusetts.

CROOKER HINTS AT B. & M. DEBT IRREGULARITIES

The hearing on the petition of the reorganization plan of the Boston and Maine Railroad was continued today before the Public Service Commission. George L. Mayberry, counsel for the road, closed his case, and Conrad W. Crooker opened for the opponents. Mr. Crooker represents the Boston and Maine Security Stockholders' Protective Association, and he refused to disclose the identity of the stockholders he represents, although he said they were considerable in number.

Mr. Crooker charges that $13,000,000 of the $18,000,000 unfunded debt of the Boston and Maine is not owned and never was owned by the road. "I can understand the position of the directors," he said, "in proposing my efforts for a very severe cross-examination, but I am for the improper issue of securities."

CHURCH DISPUTE MAY BE TAKEN TO COURT

Controversy over the treasurership of the building fund of St. John Baptist Union (colored) may be threshed out in court. The union is affiliated with St. John Baptist Church, No. 89 Concord street, South End. Miss Charlotte Dorsey was elected treasurer to succeed Mrs. Mary Hawkins of Everett. Mrs. Hawkins refused to turn over the books and funds, contending that the meeting at which she was superseded was unconstitutional. The new board of officers, retained Charles L. Quirk of Roxbury to take court proceedings if necessary to obtain the records and funds to date.

Paris, Feb. 27.—The new military terms to be presented to the Germans at Treves were turned over to Premier Clemenceau today for his approval by Marshal Foch.

Examination of financial questions involved in the peace conference was concluded today by the commission appointed to look into them. It was formally announced in the following communique:

"The final drafting committee met this morning under the presidency of M. Crespi and concluded its examination of the list of financial questions to be submitted to the Council of Ten."

LISTEN, GIRLS: TAX ON SILK HOSE MAY GO

Congressmen Are Meeting Today to See What Can Be Done With Luxury Tolls

Cheer up, girls, lingerie is not yet lost! Neither are your fimsy silk stockings! Claude Kitchin to the rescue!

If the chairman of the congressional Ways and Means Committee wins his bout with the new revenue bill you will not be able to buy silk hose and crepe de chine envelope "shimmies" as of yore. The committee meets today to see what can be done about it. You may still get the new rug for the living room and a frame for grandfather's portrait, and you won't have to countermand Tommy's new suit and little Mary's Spring hat.

Father may get the smoking jacket you had planned for his birthday, and may buy himself a flowered "vestit" if he chooses, without paying a toll in new taxes.

In other words, if Section 905 of the revenue bill recently signed by President Wilson is lopped off the new luxury taxes will be repealed. If not, you will have to pay 10 per cent. extra on all lingerie, silk stockings, fancy boo ic waists and other clothing, on carpets, rugs and other household furnishings, trunks, umbrellas and light fixtures.

Every dollar paid for clothes, whether for adornment or protection from wintry blasts, will jump to $1.10.

These taxes all apply only to goods above fixed prices. The common or garden cotton rugs, underwear, hose and union suits won't be taxed. But who ever heard of a common or garden silk shirt waist? Suddenly the moment they attain the distinction of being called "vests" instead of "undershirts," instead of corset covers, and "combinations" in place of "shimmies," they fall in the luxury class.

Buyers of automobiles and motorcycles will be obliged to chip in 5 per cent. tax instead of 3 per cent., as formerly. Athletic outfits, such as tennis and golf balls, sport jackets, fishing rods and reels and hunting outfits will be taxed 10 instead of 5 per cent. Children's toys will be taxed 10 instead of 2 per cent. Playing cards jump from 2 to an 8 per cent. tax.

Every dollar spent for proprietary medicine, such as pills and powder, will cost an extra cent after May 1. Not only that, but my lady's favorite perfume will carry a tax of 4 instead of 2 per cent.

W. T. Munn of No. 111 Warren street, Roxbury, in a letter to the Boston American, calls attention to a local condition which he says is responsible for the death of Mrs. Cooney of Roxbury, and is also contributory to other accidents. He refers to the car stop which is maintained by the Public Library, and which, he says, permits cars to gather a speed on the descent on Warren street, which is always a source of danger.

$100 Champagne Now High Price for Fancy Drinks

And Cleopatra Was Easy

The lady, who for centuries has held the record for mixing the most expensive drink in the world has been distanced. Her place has been usurped by the wholesale liquor dealers—and Cleopatra's famous "pearl dissolved in vinegar" cocktail finds first honors no longer.

Champagne at $100 a quart, or $25 a glass, has established a new record—and all because the wholesale dealers have bought up the entire supply of "bubbles"—in view of the increased rates under the new revenue bill—and they are going to hold onto it, until someone who owns a mint comes along and buys it back again.

Not only has imported champagne taken upon itself wings and gone sailing off on a sea of greenbacks, but highballs, cocktails, fizzy drinks, juleps, flips and cobblers, are aspiring to do likewise. Persons who dabble in such fancy fluids as Benedictine, creme de menthe, kummel and chartreuse are already in the class of men who own their own steam yachts and private racing stables.

New York reports that the humble "schooner" of beer that sailed across the bar at five cents per glass, will soon be fifteen cents now—and that it is a mere dory—compared with the "schooner" of the days "befo' de war."

ADMIT PASTORS IN RIOT CASE TO BAIL

Boston Ministers Plead Not Guilty of Disturbing Peace in Lawrence

BY JOHN P. GAVIN.

Lawrence, Feb. 27.—The Rev. Abraham J. Muste and Rev. Cedric Long, both of Boston, pleaded not guilty to charges of disturbing the peace and obstructing the public highway in court today in connection with the alleged riot near the Arlington Mills. Rev. Cedric Long pleaded not guilty to an additional charge of assault and battery on an unknown girl. Both men were originally charged with inciting a mob to riot.

Through their attorney, George W. Roewer of Boston, they succeeded in having the case continued until March 12. Bail of $500 was fixed in each case, notwithstanding the efforts of City Marshal O'Brien to have bonds fixed at a higher figure.

Following the hearing Marshal O'Brien declared that in the event of any serious development in the injuries to Mounted Officer Jeremiah Sullivan, who was thrown from his horse during the alleged riot, he would attempt to have a more serious charge lodged against the two ministers.

Muste and Long were arrested following disorder which the police say was deliberately promoted by the strike leaders, and which the strike leaders say was provoked by the authorities.

SAY WORKERS INTIMIDATED.

The arrests followed the first appearance on the picket lines of the strike leaders. Muste, Long and Ines Kaplan, secretary of the general strike committee, appeared in the midst of their followers about the time the workers in the Arlington Mills were to be dismissed, and are charged by the authorities with having attempted to intimidate these workers.

Long, who is a young minister, is specifically charged with having assaulted a girl worker. He in turn charges that the police beat him and his friends in the side streets, where clubbing might be indulged in without too much publicity, and reiterates the familiar charge of brutality.

Strike leaders put under arrest besieged the police station after the alleged riot, and some of them said that the "persecution" of Muste and

PASTORS BITTER AT POLICE.

The strike leaders were bailed a few hours after their arrest by local sympathizers, their bonds being fixed at $500 for each. The two radical clergymen emerged from their police quarters in a bitter mood and were loud in their condemnation of police methods.

Muste gave his age as thirty-four and his address as No. 89 Appleton street, Boston. Long registered as twenty-nine years old, from Epping, N. H.

The socialist riot was a concourse of strikers in Holly street, near the Arlington Mills, and there was a brisk charge by strike cavalry" before it was broken up.

STARVING EUROPEANS BEING DRIVEN TO ANARCHY, SAYS DR. DILLON

CALLS FOR ALLIED ACTION IN BEHALF OF POLAND

By DR. E. J. DILLON.

Special Cable to the Boston American and Philadelphia Public Ledger.
(Copyright in the United States and Canada by the Philadelphia Ledger Company.
Copyright in Europe by the London Daily Telegraph.)

Paris, Feb. 27.—The feeling of impatience with the Peace Conference, which has not liquidated the war and concluded peace with Germany, is fast reaching a climax. Newspaper articles are filled with sharpest strictures. Le Journal writes:

"A whole month has elapsed since the deliberations opened, yet the essential problem of liquidation of the war has not yet been tackled. The basis for the future world order has been constructed and fields for unlimited studies have been set apart. The delegates have been hovering around a vast variety of problems. But the capital question of the settlement of Germany's fate has been carefully left in abeyance.

Delegates conscious of this incongruity, to which they ascribe causes independent of their will, are at last speeding up. Their first effort will be to draft such territorial and military political conditions for the renewal of the armistice as can be incorporated in a preliminary peace treaty which will subsequently be elaborated in definite and ratified as such. The lines on which the conditions will be conceived are plain. They are that the allied peoples who have been plunged into unprecedented sufferings by a criminal war of aggression, justice to the future generations which must be spared the repetition of such a dire disaster, justice to nationalities oppressed by the enemies of the entente and also justice to adversaries with whom the rest of Europe must live in continuous relationship and hence the line of demarcation between possible and impossible conditions will be traced automatically by the effects they are likely to have on the spread or the arrest of Bolshevism.

DANGER IN ANARCHY.

Anarchy in Central Europe entails anarchy all over the continent, therefore not only should nothing be done conducive to demoralization, but everything reasonable and possible should be undertaken to hinder, for there are even more redoubtable dangers than the partial economic ruin of Germany or the restablishment of racial unity among the Teutons. This betterment in her condition, however undesirable it may seem to individuals, is part and parcel decreed by governments which lay as much stress upon indemnity as do the continental nations.

As I have repeatedly said, Germany possesses some elements capable of leading the nation out of the slough of despond, and the bulk of her people is anxious to bring their forces to the extent allowed by very changed conditions, but if the peace be sore put upon them, as it probably will culminate in a universal catastrophe. I am convinced that when this view is accepted by the Anglo-saxon delegates, and will probably be adopted by all.

Urgent matters now under contemplation are the fixing of the eastern frontiers of Germany and a limitation of the people of Central Europe, for unless they soon receive food, will be driven into the anarchist camp. Reliable and trustworthy information that already large sections of the laboring class, who were formerly moderate, enterprising, persevering people are now become idle, sluggish and shiftless.

TERRORISM IN POLAND.

They don't want work and are not solicitous about the future; this dangerous temper which continued privations will accentuate.

As the conditions for renewal of the armistice must shortly be considered, Germany's new frontiers must be included in them and the evacuation of several districts, such as several provinces in the north-east and east will be necessary. The district and part of Silesia and a neutralized Posen province will probably be eastern frontiers, and the southern western province will be East Prussia and Schleswig, and the entrance to the province will be the bank of the Rhine.

The idea is the demand to point out the futility of creating an "independent Poland as an auxiliary of the League of Nations" and the indispensable necessity of life, activity and development accompany the gift, and that these conditions must comprehend Danzig and the hinterland has become manifest to dullest apprehension.

An object lesson of great practical value is being taught today by the condition in which the Poles are placed by the lack of access to the allied peoples. In Eastern Prussia the Polish leaders are being arrested and imprisoned and arbitrarily massacre laws are being ruthlessly applied and expressions of nations suppressed by Poles is being draconically suppressed. In a word, silent terrorism is the basis of administration. Moreover the Polish nation is isolated from Western Europe. Letters cannot be sent to it, or when delivered are censored. In Austria telegrams are read and possibly delayed. In Trieste, Lucina, Polish news is often retarded, and, worst of all, the Polish troops quartered in Galicia cannot be transported to their own country.

This absurdity is literally true. General Haller is ready to start. He told me the troops could be entrained at a day's notice, but free access by Poland is denied him by the Germans. The clauses in the armistice treaty stipulating free passage for allied troops has never been respected, and if the Germans should signify assent to the passage of Polish government would probably decline to assume responsibility for the safety of the troops.

PROTEST BY ARMENIANS.

Suppose the train was blown up between Dantzig and Thorn, who would be answerable? True, there is the allied commission now in Poland, but no allied commission could police the railway line through the enemy country. The idea is impossible and that means that Dantzig, together with the Hinterland, must become Polish, and their connection included in the terms for the forthcoming renewal of the armistice.

The economic situation of Poland, which has been carefully studied since the delegates arrived there, has opened the eyes of those who hitherto had seemed unable to grasp the necessity of connecting Danzig within the new state. If one could conceive the allied schools of counting Dantzig in this condition, one could safely prophesy that within ten or fifteen years the Polish commonwealth would be economically within Germany's orbit and estranged from the nations of the entente.

I am personally convinced Bolshevism would have been warded off from Bavaria if the allied had the insight and courage to deal with Poland some weeks ago as wisely as they seem inclined to deal with her in a few days.

MAY RENAME MALDEN PARK FOR ROOSEVELT

Cochrane Lea, one of Malden's most beautiful parks, containing three and a half acres of land and a natural waterway 1,000 feet long, may be renamed Roosevelt Park as a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt.

Cochrane Lea was named by former Park Commissioner Sylvester Baxter after an English estate, and is bounded by Mountain avenue and Clifton street.

FULLER WILL OPPOSE PROPOSED POSTOFFICE

Congressman Alvan T. Fuller has written friends in Malden, his home city, that despite the fact that Malden has an appropriation of $100,000 for a postoffice building recommended in the building bill now before Congress, he will oppose the bill as he does not believe in "pork barrel" legislation.

Tossed Dice to Pick Assassin of Eisner

London, Feb. 27.—Ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and a number of former high army officers tossed dice in a Munich club to decide who should assassinate Premier Kurt Eisner, the Daily Chronicle learns from its Geneva correspondent. Count Arco-Valley lost.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK IN N. Y. MARCH 4

tion today when the details of the discussion of President Wilson's dinner in the Foreign Relations Committee of the House become known.

LEAGUE ADVOCATES CONFIDENT.

The President's disavowal of any intention to keep any of the information given Senators and Representatives last night secret led to the freest discussion of the entire League of Nations project in the light of the new facts given by the chief executive in the lobbies and the cloakrooms today.

The fact that the President made no startling statements as the basis for a demand for ratification of the League of Nations constitution led to the belief that his gravest fears were not given expression at the dinner. Neither Senator Lodge nor Senator Knox revealed their hands in the discussion. The only opponent of the league who played a prominent part was Senator Brandegee of Connecticut.

Supporters of the League of Nations came away from the White House with the conviction that the project cannot be defeated.

NEW FACTS BROUGHT OUT.

The new facts brought out at the dinner, which were deemed of greatest importance, were:

That any nation may withdraw from the League of Nations at any time by a formal abrogation of the constitution of the league.

That the course of disarmament decided upon by the executive council is not absolutely binding upon member nations.

That questions of immigration or emigration cannot properly be referred to the league, nor can it regulate the international affairs of any member nation.

That mandatories are not compulsory, but that a general feeling at the peace conference that the United States should take Armenia and other parts of the Turkish empire under its guardianship.

SHIP IN WHICH WILSON DROVE RIVET IS LAUNCHED

Washington, Feb. 27.—The ship in which President Wilson himself drove the first rivet today made the ways into the historic Potomac today. The President and Mrs. Wilson were expected to attend the launching, which will be from the yard of the Virginia Shipbuilding Company at Alexandria. The ship, named by Mrs. Wilson, the Gunston Hall, registers 9,600 tons. It is the first modern steel steamship ever built on the banks of the Potomac.

TEACHERS' PLEA FOR WAGE REVISION DENIED

A petition of the Quincy Elementary Teachers' Association of Quincy for a readjustment in the recent wage increase in that city was turned down at the regular meeting of the school committee.

The school board recently granted an increase of $7 per week to all school masters, 20 per cent. to masters' assistants and 25-5 per cent. to elementary teachers. The committee considered that the increase had been unfairly divided.

ITALY IS URGED TO ANNEX DALMATIA

Ferrero Voices Views of Those Who Favor Seizure by Rome

By GUGLIELMO FERRERO,
The Famous Italian Historian.
Written Expressly for Universal Service.

Rome, Feb. 26.—Dalmatia is the burning question of the Italian peace. As I write, the country is in a state of confusion. There are two opposing parties, one of which demands the annexation of Dalmatia, while the other is against it. These two parties exchange arguments, insults and blows.

We will leave the blows to those who give and those who receive them; we will leave the insults to take care of themselves, and will confine our attention to an impartial review of the arguments of the two parties and then proceed to draw our own conclusions.

The annexationists claim Dalmatia, above all, for the name of historic right. In ancient days Dalmatia belonged to Rome, which gave that country its civilization and right. In ancient days Dalmatia belonged to Rome, which gave that country its civilization and notable traces of Roman domination in Dalmatia. Spalato, for instance, is constructed within the ruins of Diocletian's palace.

SISTER CITIES OF VENICE.

In modern times Dalmatia belonged to Venice, which has left indelible marks of its rule. All travelers have recognized the cities of the Dalmatian coast as sisters of Venice, daughters of the same mother. In language, architecture and spirit alike Zara is one of the most thoroughly Italian cities in the world. Italian was for many centuries the language of the cultured and official classes, and is still spoken by all educated Dalmatians.

The Italians in Dalmatia have always formed an elite, which for long had the whole government in its hands and still enjoys distinct prestige in the country, in spite of fact that Austria has done to diminish its influence. The culture and civilization of Dalmatia have always been of a markedly Latin and Italian character, while the Slav and Teutonic elements have exercised but little influence.

The annexationists bolster up the historic argument with reasons of military necessity. Dalmatia is essential to Italy. The Italian coast, from the mouths of the Po to Gargano, affords no defense against enemy attacks on its populous and prosperous cities or on the important railway line from Rimini to Termoli.

The two ports in which a war fleet could keep guard for purposes of defense are Venice and Brindisi, but the first is at too great a distance to be able to give efficient protection to such a long stretch of coast line.

REFUGE FOR SUBMARINES.

Dalmatia, on the contrary, with its ports, its bays, its gulfs and the intricate archipelago of its coast line, offers a safe refuge to submarines, destroyers, cruisers and light coasting vessels, and the best base imaginable for operations intended to cut off communication between the upper and lower Adriatic and for the bombardment of the Italian coast.

Dalmatia was in olden days a famous nest of pirates, and for this reason Rome was obliged to take possession of it when she wished to insure the safety of navigation in the Adriatic. Today piracy has reappeared in a new guise in submarine warfare, and it is necessary to cope with light craft.

Italy should, therefore, follow the example of ancient Rome and take possession of Dalmatia, so as to rid herself of the danger which may lurk on the Dalmatian coasts.

These are the arguments of the annexationists. What are those of opponents to say? This question will be answered in my next article.

MILLIONS IN EUROPE ARE STARVING

Food, or Chaos Inevitable, Declares Russell in Review of Crisis East of Rhine

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL.
Exclusive Cable by the International News Service and the London Daily Express.

London, Feb. 27.—Food or chaos! That in plain terms is the situation to practically all of Europe east of the Rhine.

Help must come with organized relief on a scale unknown heretofore—with bread, meat and clothes for millions, and then millions more—or the world will face the certainty of terrible distress over vast regions and the possibility of a storm that will shake the whole structure of modern society. And maybe shake it down.

Anyone that talks about things as they really are in Europe will seem to the uninitiated to be an alarmist or exaggerator. That is because the world has never before faced such a situation and has nothing in its experience to base a comparison on. I can only assure you that no one in these past few weeks who has been in Paris and heard the reports from eastern Europe will think this forecast of coming trouble extravagant.

300,000,000 NEED FOOD NOW.

Of 400,000,000 peoples in Europe it is likely that 300,000,000 are now approaching the line of acute destitution or are already upon it or over it.

In some parts of Austro-Hungaria, Silesia and Bohemia starvation has either begun or is close at hand. In most of Germany the present supply of foodstuffs will be exhausted in four weeks and nobody knows what new disasters will be bred from that fact.

The most optimistic in Germany look with the gravest misgivings upon that fateful day.

If there is neither peace nor security in Europe with Germany fed what will be the condition with Germany starving?

It is much the same in Turkey, although the conditions there are described as appalling.

In Constantinople there is acute famine among the poor. Reports from camps where 1,000,000 Russian prisoners are still confined in Germany and in Bohemia are of a nature not printable.

PROBLEM A STERN ONE.

I can only hint them by saying no such stories have been flashed printed men, except by parties of des-

Moonshine Plant Is Seized in Woods at Sebago Lake

Portland, Me., Feb. 27.—A complete pocket distillery and moonshine outfit was seized by Deputy Sheriffs Hunt and Wheeler in a cottage in the woods near Sebago Lake Village, twelve miles from here. It is believed liquor was being manufactured for the men working on the big ice fields.

The equipment consisted of five kettles, in one of which was a gallon glass jar from which boiled molasses, while sliced raw potatoes were cooking in the mixture. The strained juice of this compound was cooking in the other kettle.

Several empty peppermint bottles marked 75 per cent. alcohol were part of the outfit.

VIVIANI URGES QUICK ACTION ON RUSSIA

By RENE VIVIANI.
Former Premier of France.
Written Expressly for Universal Service.

Paris, Feb. 26.—Bolshevism is a menace to the world. It is Russia's ruin. What a bitter fruit of victory if that country were to remain in its present state of bloody chaos.

All attempts at a solution thus far have been in vain. The governments organized south of the Ukraine are conference on Prinkipo Island, where inaccessible by way of Archangel. What do those governments intend to do? What are the relations among them?

Hitherto their isolated efforts do not seem to have been blessed with much efficacy, and their common efforts with none. This state of affairs led to the call of all Russian parties to a they might explain their grievances and try to get together.

Premier Lloyd George advocated this scheme after having previously suggested the same idea to France, whose government rejected it. President Wilson supported the English idea and wrote the invitation.

The success of this undertaking is open to doubt. Events, indeed, have rendered it futile. Not a single Russian party, not a single government, consented to appear on the same level as Bolshevism or to collaborate with the Bolshevikl in any form. One Russian government accepted, that in the Crimea, but its president has been overthrown since.

The Bolshevikl's reply was an insult. They offered not a single moral or material guarantee, and even if we desired to do so, we cannot transform the monologue into a dialogue. The refusal of the other governments and the semi-acceptance—though ambiguous—of the Bolshevikl make the situation delicate.

However, we inconceivable that the authors of the invitation did not consider what they would do in a case of a rupture or refusal.

Is armed intervention desired? Everybody rejects it. Demobilization is so impatiently awaited. Already many contingents have been thinned. The intentions of the American Senate were clearly indicated, despite the split vote. We are, therefore, confronted, first, with a political and intellectual impossibility to negotiate; second, the material and military impossibility of action on the part of entente armed forces.

CLAIM BOSTON GAMBLERS GOT SOLDIERS' CASH

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, Feb. 27.—What the agents of the Department of Justice have been investigating alleged gambling places in Boston and suburbs visited by soldiers in this cantonment where crap games domicated, became known today.

A soldier who just heavily at a resort not far from the Dover street Elevated station, Boston, overstayed his leave of absence, it is stated, and when questioned by an officer of his company told of becoming interested in a card game and forgetting about his duties to the army.

Disclosures made at court-martial trials here, in which soldiers who figured in games of chance in various gambling houses in Providence were involved, has also caused Federal agents, it is asserted, to prepare a list of places to be raided in that city.

The names of horse race gamblers who operate in Boston and Providence are known, and they will be asked to explain what they know concerning a large sum of money loaned in their hands by a soldier now in the guardhouse here on the charge of stealing funds from the base hospital.

Federal investigators were present at the trial of one soldier here and were astounded at the revelations made, it is stated. The full significance of them did not dawn on the military authorities until a report was made later by an agent of the Department of Justice, who had been in touch with other investigators in Rhode Island dealing with the gambling end of the case.

From this investigator it was learned that a well-known Providence gambler who had been reading the testimony reported that the soldier was undoubtedly the man who had bet heavily on a horse that came in last. This gambler also remarked, it is stated, that the soldier was present with others at a gambling game in a place called "The Fenner Stand," near Providence, which has long been the subject of much discussion in Rhode Island circles. The Federal authorities, it is stated, will now take a hand in putting this resort out of business once and for all.

Major James A. Sarratt of L Company, 36th Infantry, heads a board appointed today to investigate damages to private property by persons in the military service and assessing damages against the responsible persons. The members of the board are Captain William P. Scobeym, 36th Infantry, and Captain J. C. Warnock, Infantry, Relief Depot Brigade.

$1,000,000 Estate Is Left by Police Lieutenant

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 27.—James Flaherty, former police lieutenant of the Fifteenth and Locust streets station, Philadelphia, who died here several days ago, left an estate which has been appraised at upwards of a million dollars.

Flaherty lived the life of a recluse and was known to have strong prejudices and to change his judgment frequently.

Mrs. Margaret Miller of Philadelphia, who nursed Flaherty, was left a quarter of a million. Two sisters and children of two other deceased sisters divided the balance of the estate.

The estate consists of $500,000 in gilt-edge securities and the other half-million is invested in real estate here and in Philadelphia.

RETIRE LIFE-SAVER WHO SAW 32 YEARS' SERVICE

Newburyport, Feb. 27.—Completing thirty-two years as a life-saver, Captain Thomas J. Maddock, keeper of the coast guard station, No. 29, at Plum Island, will be retired from service at midnight tomorrow.

DAUGHTERS IN FIGHT FOR MILLIONS

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—Baroness Katherin De Monchy and Mrs. James N. Farr of Wilkesbarre, Pa., sisters, have begun a contest for the $3,000,000 estate left by their brother, Henry W. Bartol.

On the ground that their father was insanely prejudiced against them, was subject to delusions about his wife and daughters, and that when he made the will he was not a resident of the United States, but of Nice, France, they are seeking to have the will set aside.

Mr. Bartol made a fortune in sugar refining and railroad stocks. He died here in December, 1917.

The sisters said a nephew, Henry G. Bartol would receive only $500 each in an estate of $3,000,000 accumulated in France. The bulk of the $3,000,000 is left to the Franklin Institute in this city.

HAYES NAMED ARCHBISHOP OF NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 27.—Bishop Patrick J. Hayes has been appointed archbishop of the New York diocese. It is openly predicted by high church authorities he will be wearing the red hat of a cardinal within three years. And Bishop Hayes is but fifty-one!

For years the late Cardinal Farley, when moot questions were to be decided, would say, "Send for Hayes; let us see what he thinks." Pope Benedict yesterday "sent for Hayes." The appointment was hailed with the greatest delight both in and out of church circles.

Congratulatory letters and telegrams began pouring into the archiepiscopic on Madison avenue and the rectory of St. Stephen's Church on East Twenty-eighth street, of which Archbishop Hayes is irremovable rector. Two of the wires were from Cardinal Gibbons and from the faculty and students of the College of St. Vincent-on-the-Hudson. In addition there were hundreds of telephone calls.

The Archbishop is a forceful speaker. His speech on patriotism, delivered while America was on the verge of war with Germany, was quoted all over the country. He has always been interested in social and economic questions, and at St. Gabriel's started a question box on those topics. He is also noted as an authority on church law.

It was on the human side of the new archbishop that men who know him seemingly to like best to dwell. Said one church dignitary:

"The Archbishop is a lover of New York and everything pertaining to it. That is why he is so wonderfully equipped to administer the most cosmopolitan archdiocese in the world. The Archbishop loves to stroll the streets of New York. If a fire engine passes his eyes sparkle, and he watches it like a boy.

"His habits are simple. He does not smoke and eats sparingly. His habits are very much like the late Cardinal Farley's."

FRESH FISH AT COST PRICE TO PUBLIC

Five Cents a Pound for the Common Kinds; Stores Are Open Tomorrow

places where such stores also are planned.

SUPPLY ASSURED.

In these stores will be sold at five cents a pound, which represents less than the actual wholesale cost of the fish in most cases—fish which unscrupulous retailers mentioned in setting profits of several hundred per cent. from a suffering public, have been charging readily 10 to 20 or more cents per pound.

With every prospect that the wholesale price of fish is going to rise, the American has made arrangements to put this fish on the market, and can assure the public of a supply for some time to come. These arrangements were made by opening to the public the vast amount of excellent fish in cold storage.

Each of these fish, shortly after being caught, was dipped into water in a very low temperature, and was thus encased in an envelope of ice. The fish was then frozen solid. Until the original ice casing is broken there is no chance for the fish to deteriorate.

Unscrupulous retailers have been accustomed to thaw this fish, and then sell it to the public as fish just out of the water.

SOLD AS FROZEN FISH.

In the American stores this fish will be sold as frozen fish. It will be sold frozen solid. Every purchaser will thaw his own fish. Until the fish is thawed it cannot spoil. It will be sold for five cents a pound.

A great deal of the fish now being placed on the market costs eight, nine and ten cents a pound at wholesale.

Dr. Pennington, the pure food expert of the United States government, who has made a life study of foodstuffs, strongly recommends the use of frozen fish. So does Dr. Moore of the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

At this season of the year many varieties of fish, such as mackerel and swordfish, can only be secured from cold storage. Mackerel and swordfish are caught only during the warmer months.

Here are directions for thawing the fish:

Fish should be placed in an icebox or in a cool place to thaw. It can be thawed in water, but the method of allowing it to thaw by placing it in a cold place is better. After thawing dry fish thoroughly with a cloth. Fry at once. If the fish are thawed in water the same water should be used to cook them.

What the opening of these stores means to the general public can be gleaned from the following facts:

The average family purchaser buys five pounds of fish at a time.

At five cent a pound this amounts to twenty-five cents.

At prevailing rates in retail stores this would amount to from fifty cents to a dollar or more.

In other words the American is cutting the retail price of fish from 100 to several hundred per cent.

The American plans to employ in its stores, as far as possible, discharged service men. Any such men who have had experience in handling fish are invited to write to the Fish Editor, Boston American, if desiring positions.

If you want food at cost watch the Boston American for further announcements of its plan to reduce the cost of living by giving the people the benefit of the market.

Later, when the supply of fresh fish increases, as it will with the more favorable weather of the Spring, fresh fish will be offered through the Boston American stores at cost. At the present time conditions are such that the cold storage supply offers the best solutions to the high cost of living.

Where to Get Fish at Five Cents Per Pound

Tomorrow the Boston American will open fish stores at the following places:

SOUTH END—Corner of Shawmut avenue and Milford street.

SOUTH BOSTON—Corner of Broadway and Dorchester street.

CAMBRIDGE—At No. 709 Main street, near Lafayette.

ROSLINDALE—At Poplar street.

Pittsburgh Dealers Making Profit of 1600 Per Cent. on Frozen Fish

Pittsburgh, Feb. 27.—A row in the City Council over the city ordinance providing transient fish dealers must pay a license fee of $200 has been precipitated by the serious inroads on the profits of local dealers made by the Boston Fish Distributing Company of Boston shipping in cars of fresh fish and disposing of them at half the usual price. Incidentally it was revealed the fact that local fish men, selling frozen fish, are making a profit of 1,600 per cent.

Is it always the Husband's fault?

IS the wife never to blame? Has a man no right to seek companionship and sympathy when they are missing in his own home? Is Clayton Spencer to be reproached for what he did?

"What do men want, anyway?" Mrs. Haverford had asked. And Audrey, brilliant, audacious, under the impulse of her own hurt, had answered flippantly, cynically: "They want different things at different ages. That is why marriage is such a rotten failure."

Was she right? Must the modern man inevitably outgrow the woman he marries? Can the woman help it?

This is the problem—the great problem of modern married life, which Mary Roberts Rinehart has taken hold of in her latest novel. Fearlessly she portrays this absorbing situation that confronts men and women today.

Clayton Spencer, brilliant, successful, eager for greater achievement—Natalie, beautiful, frivolous, selfish, the wife with whom he had not a thought in common—could there be greater tragedy? Was Clayton Spencer to be denied forever the love and understanding he craved? Could Natalie have satisfied the needs of his deepening years?

And when he finds the woman of his craving—the woman of greater heart and deeper understanding—what? Must he renounce her?

"Dangerous Days" is a novel that every man and woman will want to read. Begin it in the March Pictorial Review today. A regular $1.60 novel complete in three more issues.

PHONE GIRLS TO SEEK WILSON'S AID IN FIGHT

That Greater Boston and New England are on the verge of a general tie-up in all telephone service unless a settlement of the demands made by the New England Joint Council of Telephone Workers is made in the immediate future, was the opinion expressed by an official of the Telephone Operators' Union following the vote taken on the strike question. The operators will also make an appeal to President Wilson for an adjustment of present wage conditions.

"I think it may be safely said" declared the representative of the "hello girls," "that although the votes on the strike question have not yet been counted, it was a foregone conclusion that the telephone operators would vote in favor of the strike."

The votes cast by the operators from Greater Boston between 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. at No. 995 Washington street will be counted together with the votes cast by the telephone girls throughout New England, when the New England Joint Council of Telephone Workers meets at the Quincy House tomorrow.

NATION-WIDE STRIKE PLANNED.

Backing the action of 3,700 operators in Greater Boston in their demand for a wage scale of from $8 a week to a $22 maximum, are 14,000 allied wire workers of New England.

Miss Julia O'Connor, president of the Telephone Operators Union declared, "If a strike becomes necessary it will be nation-wide in its scope, and will undoubtedly include besides the organized telephone workers, many thousands of the unorganized, who are bitterly resentful of the treatment they have received from the Postmaster-General."

Nearly all of the girls who gathered to vote on the strike question in Boston expressed bitterness over the inaction of Postmaster-General Burleson.

"We have waited a long time for Mr. Burleson to act," declared a pretty operator from the Arlington exchange, after she had cast her vote, "and his inaction and disregard of our demands is galling on our nerves. I have no doubt but that the majority of the girls have voted to strike, but we will not strike until every other method to try to reach a settlement has failed."

ATTACKS BURLESON.

Miss O'Connor, in her statement regarding Postmaster-General Burleson, declared, "Our schedule with a $16 maximum in seven years ran out December 31, 1918. It should have been replaced with a new agreement providing for a higher scale of wages with a short-time period before reaching the maximum rate of pay. This the Postmaster-General has not only refused to do himself, but has refused to permit the telephone company to do in not allowing them to reach an agreement with us on the matter."

According to officials of the Telephone Union, if the vote of the operators is in favor of the strike no action will be taken until after the hearing on the measure introduced in Congress by Congressman Tague, asking for a committee of five to make an investigation of Postmaster-General Burleson's administration of the wires. An audience with President Wilson will also be sought.

ALL WORKERS DISSATISFIED.

The ultimatum for a strike of nation-wide scope presents the most serious outlook in the telephone system in many years, according to officials of the Telephone Operators' Union. Not only are the wire workers of New England tiring of the delay, they say, but general dissatisfaction among the telephone workers is growing throughout the entire country.

While the operators of Boston were polling the telephone workers on the Pacific Coast were casting their votes on the strike question. The results of their voting will not be known until tomorrow night.

Children of Nation Honor Longfellow on Birthday

School children all over the United States today, in song and story, are observing the birthday of the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. It was 112 years ago today that the poet first opened baby eyes in Portland, Me.

It was in his early home that he wrote his first published verse, "The Battle of Lovell's Pond" and it was to the letter box outside this he stole to post those cherished verses, and to thereafter wait—with palpitating eagerness—the publishing of them in the Portland Gazette. From that house emanated many other verses, dear to the heart of the children.

The house occupied by the poet in Cambridge when he was Harvard professor is always a Mecca to visiting pilgrims, eager to pay a visit to this shrine of the lover of little children, the "poet of childhood."

BELMONT FARMHAND SHOT, FRIEND ARRESTED

Michele Ferrilo, thirty-six, was shot and killed by a shotgun in the hands of Tony Finalle on the farm of James Richardson at Belmont today. GOVERNMENT TO ROUT UNREST IN ENGLAND

(This is the third and last article of a series on labor unrest in Great Britain.)

By FLOYD MacGRIFF,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Feb. 27.—Forced by the war to make sacrifices, bear burdens and take risks he would not have imagined himself entering upon or carrying through five years ago, the laboring man in Great Britain has come to see the dawn of a new day. He is convinced it is in a new era. So he himself, conscious of the basis of a mightier and unyielding to go back to pre-war conditions, is determined to force the change.

The turmoil of Europe has aroused a sleeping giant. Labor, meaning generally those workers who do not wear a white collar, has come to realize as never before how society is dependent upon it. Labor likewise has come to sense many of the peculiar injustices it is subjected to in Europe and it is resolved to abolish them.

In this respect, the British government already has been forced to abandon its attitude of non-interference in industrial disputes unless life or property is endangered. It has been wise enough to foresee that it alone has the power, ability and strength to keep labor and capital teaming together for the benefit of the public as well as themselves. The government has become convinced it must have a constructive labor program to meet the difficulties that loom up ahead.

The first thing the government is resolved upon is to crush Bolshevism. This is to be done in two ways, first, by truthful propaganda; second, by strengthening the hands of trade union officials in connection with the former there will be sufficient publicity to show workingmen how their own desires will be defeated by Bolshevism.

Naturally, the task of keeping labor in line and working out a permanent plan for handling labor disputes will fall upon Lloyd George. Likewise he will have to draft the chief provision of correlated program that will satisfy labor as to working hours and pay.

Lloyd George is expected to strengthen the machinery for dealing with labor unrest. A strike of any proportion in this country reacts against the government quicker than any industrial trouble could in the United States.

Industrial disputes are certain to be frequent in the next few months, and some means must be found for dealing with them more expeditiously than the present system permitted.

More publicity regarding all industrial disputes is advocated by the press, which is practically unanimous in agreeing that such things as a forty-hour week are matters for national action.

SEEK TO RECALL MAYOR CROY OF HAVERHILL

Haverhill, Feb. 27.—A proposition to seek the recall of Mayor Charles H. Croy and Commissioner of Public Safety Roswell L. Wood is advanced by officers of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union.

Mass meetings will be held on Friday to act on the plan.

Some of the members of the Protective Union charge that Mayor Croy and Wood have unduly favored the employers of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union in the controversy between the two organizations.

The signatures of 25 per cent. of those who voted for Mayor at the last city election must be obtained to hold a recall election. Union officers estimated this would require 1,600 signatures.

BOSTON KIN IN FIGHT OVER HURLEY'S WILL

At least two Bostonians are concerned in a fight pending over the will of the late Timothy Hurley, proprietor of the famous "Locke" restaurant, New York. The will, by which Hurley left the bulk of his estate to two illegitimate children, is being contested by Dennis Hurley of Hyde Park, a brother; and Mary Monahan of Brookline, a sister of the sons until the will became public property. The contest arose over The estate is estimated at more than $15,000. There were a few minor bequests, among which is the controversy between the two organizations.

The signatures of 25 per cent. of those who voted for Mayor at the last city election must be obtained to hold a recall election. Union officers estimated this would require 1,600 signatures.

WOULD ABATE 'L' TAXES DURING CONTROL

That persons using the elevated railroad should be relieved during the period of public control from all taxes, is the chief recommendation in a dissenting report made today to Mayor Peters by Dudley W. Warren, a member of the Mayor's committee, named to "investigate and analyze" the Boston Elevated situation.

Mr. Warren also states that the patrons should be relieved from all paving and street maintenance obligations, and a part, and perhaps all, of the expense of removing snow and ice from the highways.

Another point emphasized by Mr. Warren was relative to subway rentals. He says "that it was public policy to postpone the consideration of the proposal embodied in House Bill 722, to relieve the cardpayers of the burden of paying the subway rentals during the period of public control, until the next session of the General Court, when the results of a full year's operation under that public control will be known and both the Legislature and the city will be better able to deal in an intelligent way with the question.

"Dividends should not be eliminated," says Mr. Warren in his report. On this subject he says:

"In no event can I perceive either basis or justice in the proposal of a majority of the committee that the stockholders should be asked to forego interest upon their investment, as an inducement to a suspension of the subway rentals for the benefit of the community of lower street railway fares. That investment has previously been honestly made. The money was paid in at prices fixed by the public authorities, and expended under the supervision and audit of those authorities.

"To propose now to deprive the investors who advanced this money, in order to furnish this public service of all interest upon this money, is as illogical and unjust as would be a proposal similarly to confiscate the interest payments upon the money advanced by other investors, in order to enable the city to build the subways—money now represented by the listed Transit bonds."

"FUNNY MAN" HAD ON TOO MANY CLOTHES

Giving a splendid impersonation of an arctic explorer with several coats on his back and a few pair of pantaloons showing beneath, Michael Mulligan of No. 6 Clifford street, South Boston, descended the stone steps of the house at No. 19 D street.

A little girl of five stood on the sidewalk with bulging eyes.

Almost all of the funny men were also small.

Nicola looked and smiled a golden welcome with the result that the "funny man" was apprehended by the South Boston court officers and with breaking and entering charges in South Boston and one in Lawrence, of clothing. Judge Fox found probable cause and Mulligan was held in $1,000 for the Superior Court.

FIRST NAVAL DISTRICT GOES BACK TO NAVY YAR

The First Naval district will be moved to the eighth floor of the building, No. 119 at the Navy Yard, according to a statement made today by Rear-Admiral Spencer S. Wood, commandant of the district.

A few rooms on the tenth floor of the building will be retained by the Navy.

Admiral Wood expects to remove back to his old quarters at the Navy Yard shortly a week. The leased building will expire March 15, so will not be renewed.

The admiral will fly his flag from his old quarters at the Navy Yard, where he was before coming to Boston.

The admiral announced he had received the 21-gun salute from Hampton and Norfolk and a few days ago responded to this call from the Naval District.

A street parade of 1,500 soldiers in uniform who have returned from the war will precede the meeting. It will commence at 6.45 and the line of march will be through the principal streets of the city. The Governor will arrive here at 7 o'clock and will be met by Mayor Charles H. Croy, Senator A. L. Nason and members of the Municipal Council.

GIRLS PEDDLE DRUGS IN PROVIDENCE STREETS

Providence, Feb. 27.—Sensational disclosures are said to be in the hands of the authorities as the result of a confession on the part of a local young woman who is said to have told of drug traffic between Boston and this city. That young girls are peddling the drugs is admitted. One young woman is said to have visited a pool room in the centre of the city every day and secured a quantity of drugs which were dispensed to men waiting at street corners.

Here's A Gentle Laxative For Elderly People

A daily free movement of the bowels becomes a serious problem as you step from middle-life into old age, and much dependence can no longer be placed on nature herself. The bowels find artificial aid necessary.

The stronger the physic, as old people soon learn, the greater the contraction of the bowels thereafter, and so the wise purposely avoid salt waters, pills and other harsh purgatives. Many have learned to place absolute reliance on the gentle but positive action of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

It produces an agreeable movement as nearly natural and free as high pharmaceutical skill can make it. Thousands use it regularly, in the small dose prescribed, and keep themselves in fine health and good cheer, and entirely free from constipation.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

PRICE AS ALWAYS

In spite of greatly increased laboratory costs due to the War, by sacrificing profits and absorbing war taxes we have maintained the price at which this family laxative has been sold by druggists for the past 35 years. Two sizes—50c and $1.00.

DECLARE "SLIDING SCALE" FOR GAS IS ROBBING PEOPLE

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, pungent hoarse, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain, ordinary cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The latter rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get moistified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

PAY MORE AND GET LESS, SAY SPONSORS OF REPEAL BILL

"It's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways. Well, the Boston Consolidated has exactly that kind of a rule. It always works in favor of the stockholders and against the dear public. I don't know of any other business that is not obliged to take the losses along with the profits. But the Boston Consolidated, under this pernicious 'sliding scale' (which is calculated to slide light dividends into the pockets of its well-to-do stockholders) is exempt from liabilities while corralling all of the assets in sight.

"It's high time the public woke up to what is being put over on them and remonstrated against the continuance of such brazen injustice.

"My bill would put an end to such practices and give the public the protection from extortion which it so sorely needs.

The Boston Consolidated Gas Company already has another petition before the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners for a still further increase in the price of gas.

In view of such a move, the gas-using public has genuine cause for alarm. "If you want to do business with gas at $1 a thousand, why not reduce those fat 7 per cent. dividends?" is the public's answer to the gas company.

Gas consumers now feel that the time is ripe for readjustment. War prices and war conditions have ceased to exist. The public believes that the standard of household gas should be increased to its pre-war rating and prices should be lowered, not increased.

"Experts in the matter of gas cost and production are of the opinion that Metropolitan Boston is paying more for gas and getting lower heat value from it than before the war. They feel that a higher standard of gas, without extra cost to the consumer, is within the possibility in the very near future.

"The great goal to be reached, as far as the gas consumer is concerned, they say, is a uniform quality of gas with a uniform pressure.

"If the proposed raise demanded by the gas companies is granted, it will make a total increase in about a year of thirty cents. This will bring the price well over a dollar, while for the same amount of gas and a better standard consumers paid eighty cents about a year ago.

ADOPTED BRITISH SYSTEM.

To understand the gas problem, consumers should acquaint themselves with the following facts: For something like fifty-six years the State of Massachusetts has adopted the candlepower standard in determining the quality of gas furnished consumers by the companies. For the last twenty-six years, up to approximately a year ago, the standard was sixteen candlepower. The Public Service Commission was engaged in working out a formula to determine a proper standard for a uniform quality of gas with a uniform pressure, when the United States entered the war.

They wished if possible to get a better standard than the sixteen candlepower. War conditions, however, necessitated some changes, and owing to these changes the British thermal unit system was adopted.

The reason for this, experts say, was to allow the companies to furnish the government with talcol and benol. At the same time to allow the companies to give the consumer a uniform standard of gas.

Toluol is the oil which is mixed with water, by water gas companies, to make gas. Toluol is placed in the mixture to correct the gas. To enable the companies to furnish the government with toluol and benol, which the public with gas for standard was lowered.

The Massachusetts Public Service Commission set the standard at 528 British thermal units.

TIME FOR A CHANGE.

While there is no basic rule for a comparison between a candlepower and a British Thermal Unit, experts say, the ratio is about one to thirty-seven. Thus before the war a 16-candlepower would mean approximately 585 British Thermal Units. With the standard lowered to 528, consumers lose 57 British Thermal Units. In the meantime prices have soared.

Now as the country is returning to normal conditions, it is time for a change, experts say. If this is done the gas bills will show a decline and consumers will get better gas. It will have greater heat value. Under the present standard it is the heat values that suffer. There is no perceptible difference, with high-grade mantles.

All of the concessions which have been made to Massachusetts companies by the Public Service Commission during the past few years, have been in the nature of war measures. They are almost wholly due for readjustment.

Gas making and selling, like everything else, has experienced crucial times, but the public should now get the benefit for inexperiences during the interim, according to those familiar with the situation.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid—enough so it is easy to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready; just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the daintily perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing the hair dries quickly and with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich lustre and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—Advertisement.

BUT TWO DAYS LEFT TO FILE STATE TAX

Collector's Office to Remain Open Late Saturday for Belated Filing

Announcement that the State Income Tax collector's office at No. 40 Court street would be open until 5 p. m. next Saturday, March 1, for the accommodation of belated tax payers was made today by Assistant Deputy Tax Collector E. Harris Clark.

But two days remain in which to file your state income tax return. March 1 is the date limit for residents of Massachusetts. After that time tax delinquents will be subject to fines and additional penalties for forgetfulness, ignorance of the law or his case exempt from the tax.

Federal income tax blanks for income over $1,000 were mailed today to all who filed such a return in 1918. Corporation income tax forms will be sent out on Saturday. All returns of federal income tax blanks must be in the office of Collector of United States Internal Revenue John F. Malley on or before March 15. No time extension will be granted. Five per cent. of the current tax must accompany the return. The remaining 75 per cent may be paid at the option of the individual in three quarterly instalments.

Every unmarried individual whose income during the calendar year 1918 exceeded $1,000 must file both a federal income tax return. Married persons whose income during 1918 exceeded $2,000 must file both a State and Federal return.

Federal income taxpayers, both corporation and individual, will be granted forty-five days from March 15 for filing their complete tax returns, if they notify collectors in writing that they cannot complete their returns by that date. In making this announcement the Internal Revenue Bureau at Washington reiterated, however, that 25 per cent. of the estimated total tax must be paid by March 15.

It was announced that collectors of internal revenue would supply all individuals requesting the forty-five days extension with a form on which to make tentative returns as a basis for tax estimates. A form for tentative corporation returns will be mailed by revenue collectors to all corporations on their lists.

Outside of those making extension in due form, Federal taxpayers must file their returns on or before March 15.

FAMILY HEAD EXEMPT.

In figuring the State returns individuals may claim exemption of $500 for a wife or husband and $250 for each child. The total family exemption, in addition to the $2,000 allowance, must not, however, exceed $1,000. In other words, a married man with a family is entitled to $2,000 exemption if he has a wife and two children. Should the married man have six children his family exemption is limited to $3,000 just the same.

In figuring the Federal income tax married persons are entitled to $2,000 personal exemption if living as "the head of a family," and also $200 additional for each dependent child under eighteen, without limit, and for defective relatives, incapable of self-support, are classed as dependents under the Federal income tax rulings, and an additional $200 may be deducted for each of such dependents reported by the taxpayer.

Hence it follows that a federal income taxpayer may, if married, have a legitimate exemption of eight children and three dependent relatives, thereby making his total exemption in such a case $4,200.

The State income tax of 1½ per cent. is directed mainly against so-called "intangibles," which include stocks and bonds, annuities, interest and dividends.

MUST FILE FORM.

When one's income is from such sources a return must be filed regardless of the amount, unless under $1. Certain exemptions from the tax on income of this class are allowed to widows and the aged answering to a definite description. As a general rule the State income tax applies to all "business" income over $2,000 and to all income from securities, intangible property, under.

Individuals who did not file a 1918 State income tax return will be making a return this year for the first time, must sign and attach the following form to their return before it can be such returns become valid:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Income Tax Dept., Boston.

This is to certify that I filed no State income tax return in 1918 for the reason that during the calendar year preceding January 1, 1918, I received no taxable interest or dividends; I made no gains from sale of intangible property; I received no annuity or taxable pension; my total income from all sources did not exceed $2,000; I received no income subject to annuity concerning which there is any question regarding its taxability.

Relieved His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely relieved me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find complete relief without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. THEFT OF $400 FROM LYNN STITCHERS

Membership Dues, Locked in Drawer in Union Office, Stolen; Safe Untouched

The theft of $400 from the office of the Stitchers' Union, Elks Building, on Exchange street, Lynn, was discovered today. The money was collected during an evening meeting and represented membership dues.

Although there was a safe in the office, the money had been locked in a desk drawer. Indications are that the thieves knew where the money was, as the safe had not apparently been tampered with.

Michael Murray, who has an office on the same floor, reported that he saw strangers in the building in the evening; that he asked them what they wanted, and that they reported they were "just looking around."

William Atwill, business agent of the union, today aided the police in an investigation.

Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Advertisement.

SAY MARCH PRICE ON HOGS WILL BE $17.50

Washington, Feb. 27.—Although announcement on a March price on hogs was not made from the Food Administration, it is stated on excellent authority that the present price, $17.50, will be continued for March. Announcement of the March figure will probably be made today.

Omega Oil

For Sprains and Bruises

The first thing to do for a sprain or a bruise is to cover the hurt with a piece of flannel soaked with Omega Oil. Quick relief usually follows this simple treatment.

Please, Mother! It's Nasty! Give Me a Candy Cascaret!

TO MOTHERS! Instead of the dreaded dose of castor oil, drops, calomel or pills, give your children Cascarets and save money, worry and trouble. Children love Cascarets because they taste like candy. Nothing else acts so gently but surely on the child's little stomach, liver and bowels.

When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, tainted breath, sour stomach or a cold; when cross, bilious, feverish, constipated, remember, a Cascaret to quickly "work" away the nasty bile, sour fermentations and poisons should always be the first treatment given. Cascarets never gripe the tender bowels, never injure, and never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contain directions for children's dose from one year old and upwards. Also for adults.

NEW SUNTAUG ENDS COURT FIGHT

Injunction Proceedings Off With News That Famous Inn Is to Be Rebuilt

Salem, Feb. 27.—The question of an injunction to restrain the Suntaug Auto Company, at Lynnfield, and Mrs. Cora A. Eagleston from distributing or dispensing intoxicating liquors from the present building on the westerly side of Grove street, Lynnfield, which was to have been heard today by Judge Quinn in the Superior Court, was satisfactorily terminated today by the respondents agreeing to vacate the premises now occupied by them by June 15. Mrs. Eagleston said today that she intended to rebuild at once. Counsel agreed upon a stipulation to be filed in the case.

The petitioners for the injunction were Lillie H. Smith, and M. Donald Smith, holders of a house adjoining the cottage occupied by the auto club, to which the selectmen of Lynnfield transferred the license of the inn, after the inn was burned early in the Winter.

The Smiths mailed the complaint to the clerk of the Board of Selectmen from Lynn, one day last Tuesday. It did not reach the town officials, however, until January 22, after it had been one of the best known motor resorts in the State. Since the fire which destroyed the original building, the business has been conducted in an adjoining cottage.

221 IN STATE HOSPITAL ILL WITH INFLUENZA

Winchendon, Feb. 27.—Two hundred and twenty-one of the four hundred inmates at the State Colony Hospital on the outskirts of this town are ill with influenza. Seventy-six of the remaining two hundred have had the disease and recovered. Of the sixty-six employes at the hospital all but one have had the disease within the last month.

NO BONUSES FOR BRAVES IS EDICT OF MAGNATE GRANT

By NICK FLATLEY.

NO bonuses will be paid to the Braves if the club is not taken off the financial rocks when Washington starts new pennant drive. Of course no one was paid last year for the same reason for the matter of that, but this is another season.

"My athletes will work for what they sign for," declares the magnate with the patriotic name, "or they will not work at all. I'm not going to pay good salaries, if the league thinks they're big."

The statement and the edict were both set forth by the reply of a certain pitcher to the letter which enclosed his contract. The contract was acceptable, provided so much extra could be collected for winning so many games, and things like that. Nothing was told us who the hurler was, but rooting over the Braves list the only veteran pitcher with the nerve to make such a request is Little Rabbit Rixey.

The Little Master's request has carried him into a rather unique predicament, and we haven't the slightest doubt but what he is trying to get a raise. But the new man of the team is Grantham Brandon, the husband of Gloria Swanson, and the athletes want him as a starting pitcher.

As we have said before, the Little Master will lose the interest if any real deal can be pulled over. He might have gone to the Reds for Herbert and he might go yet to the Cubs for Jacobs and some bonds cash. Things like that can wait until the season is under way, and in the interest, Little Rabbit and the other eight pitchers will perform for the Braves for their usual modest but handsome salaries, but cheerfully fund rather than advance more.

Stocks Strong in New York, With Market Active

RAILWAYS AND COPPERS GO HIGHER

Motors a Leading Feature; Large Gains by Several Specialties

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in the afternoon, a number having risen above the middle level. Trading at noon time and for an hour thereafter was on so large a scale as during the morning, but the market remained active and featured by the strength of speculative Coppers and Rails. Yesterday's noon hour, which was a record in that it was the only one under selling pressure most of the time from start to finish, was a time when short interest issues did not appear to be under pressure. Most outlines were fractional and aggressive gains of more did occur in scattered issues. The number of sales in transactions indicated an extremely active market. Liquidation was by no means absent, collateral was by no means scarce, there is distrust of short money demand by such in the banking world and business interests' preparations for the natural readjustment.

MATERIAL MARKET FEATURES.

Among material features which contributed to the strength of the Rails and leather preferred was in demand because of the report that the will annihilate a large part of the accumulated dividends. Another issue in sell at a higher record price was Chic & R I pfd, which is expected to sell at no prices for this year were General Motors, White Motors, Industrial Alcohol, American Woolen, Central Leather pfd., Mexican Petroleum, Texas Company, Baldwin Locomotive, American Car & Foundry, Republic Iron & Steel, Crucible, Steel, Studebaker, Kelly-Springfield, Goodrich, Ajax Rubber, Industrial Alcohol, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Anaconda, Utah Copper, Kennecott, Chino, Nevada Consolidated, Ray Consolidated, Inspiration, Miami Copper, Lackawanna Steel, Lehigh Valley, Reading, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Atchison, Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, Erie, Delaware & Hudson, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Wabash, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Chicago & Alton, Kansas City Southern, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Texas & Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Norfolk & Western, Virginian Railway, Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard Air Line, Southern Railway, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, American International Paper and Westinghouse. Accumulation of the reason for their recent strength. The nitrogen is more attention than any other class.

AFTERNOON GAINS AND LOSSES.

Gains at 2 o'clock included general Motors, at 131, Studebaker, 1% at 85%, Industrial Alcohol, 2% at 113¾, Crucible, ¾ at 61¾, U. S. Steel, ¼ at 99¾, Ajax Rubber, ¾ at 75¾, Southern Pacific, ¼ at 95¾, Anaconda, ¾ at 75¾, Kennecott, ¼ at 37¾, Central Leather preferred, 2 at 94¾, Car and Foundry, 1¾ at 92¾, American Locomotive, ¾ at 63¾, Canadian Pacific, ¾ at 135¾, International Paper, 2¾ at 48¾, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, ¾ at 90¾.

Among declines were: American Sugar, 1¾ at 120¾, Best Sugar, ¾ at 73¾, Mexican Petroleum, ¾ at 174¾, Texas Company, ¾ at 73¾, and Studebaker, ¾ at 60. Kelly-Springfield was unchanged at 112, after selling off at the record of 113¾.

MARKET STRONG AT START.

The market was strong at the beginning, with railroads an active group. They advanced from fractions to a point on first transactions. Oils were weaker and more irregular. Rubbers were higher. General Motors made a substantial advance, selling at 130 before the end of the first hour. Steels were quiet and irregular. A number of specialties were features, notably Kelly-Springfield, which established a new high record price on the first sale, at 113, and Central Leather preferred soon sold at 94 and over. The market was extremely active during the noon hour, and trading reached within a few minutes.

SENTIMENT CONFLICTING.

There was continuation of buying on the part of the public and this was attributed to confidence generated by the business prospects. Among professional traders there was a wide diversity of view. Bears maintain there has been no change in the industrial or commercial situation to warrant a bull movement in stocks, but the demand for securities during the last few days indicates are steadily improving and business is fast approximating a normal footing. The most impressive activity is due to the investments and the market for good investments may be very favorable for price manipulation, and therefore dangerous to the casual operator. The unsettled standard stocks are slow to rise. The copper metal market is so low that it will be a long time before mining can be conducted at a profit, and with dividend reductions since the rule there evidently is a dull time ahead for copper shares. There is at present a big struggle to tempt buyers who have been on the outside.

COPPER PRODUCERS POSTPONE MEETING

The meeting of the Copper Producers' Association, which was to have been held today in New York to discuss purchasing from the government the latter's supply of surplus metal, has been postponed until Monday next, it was announced this morning. It is stated:

"When the copper men get together next Monday, according to present plans, a subcommittee will be appointed to formulate all the details of the transaction, and it is known that the personnel of this sub-committee has already been decided upon. So positive are the copper leaders that that question will be settled satisfactorily to the producers as well as the government."

It is said that a little copper has been sold by a large producer for 13¾ cents a pound, while a sale at 13¾ cents has been made by a small interest which has been quite active recently. Regarding export business, it was said in Boston this morning: "The Copper Export Association has some business for foreign account at around 17 cents a pound."

A local financial publication quotes an important producer as saying: "It would seem as though the turn has come. There has been some little business doing, chiefly for March delivery, and sales yesterday, for instance, amounted to probably 5,000,000 pounds. Small, it is true, but encouraging. Manufacturers must realize that at prevailing prices they are getting copper below the cost of production."

KEEP MEMORY OF GRAVES GREEN, SAYS NOTED ARTIST

Scituate, Mass., Feb. 27.—"The world must not forget those little white crosses out there in Flanders, if anyone tries to forget, we mothers will never allow it."

In this way, Mme. Schumann-Heink, noted opera singer, while here recently, expressed the great feeling in the hearts of the world over the fine soldiers of the world war. She now has two sons in the American military service.

SUPERSTITIOUS AUTOIST CERTAIN OF 1919 LUCK

Marion, O., Feb. 27.—E. J. Brehman of Bucyrus, near here, is sure of good luck this year. A firm believer in the good fortune which accompanies the magic number seven and its multiples, he has drawn auto license No. 212,121. Without premeditation, purely by chance, he has obtained the same number two years in succession. He didn't have an accident nor a blowout all last year, and the only time he ran out of gasoline machine stopped twenty yards from a garage.

$1,500,000 PIER FOR PORTLAND IS APPROVED

Portland, Me., Feb. 27.—The State Harbor Commission, appointed to investigate and recommend to the Legislature on the advisability of building a State pier here, has recommended that it be constructed by the State and that bonds for $1,500,000 be authorized for the cost of the initial development, it was announced.

It was recommended that a pier be constructed to extend outside Commercial street to the harbor line, a distance of 1,600 feet, with the exception that, if deemed best, the harbor line may extend if the harbor line regulations permit, it may be lengthened later.

LOOKS AND RUNS LIKE NEW—SELL ON TIME PAYMENTS

FULLY EQUIPPED with top, windshield and tools; paint and tires like new; powerful, climb any hill; easy on gasoline and tires; looks like a new car; if you call and ride in this you will say it is the best bargain you ever saw; you can use it for the next year and then get all you paid for it; any one that has an idea of purchasing a new cheap car should see this, as it is more of an automobile than a cheap-made car, looks better, rides better and will suit any one in search of a first-class automobile for little money, and I will allow a trial of 30 days to test it in every way, teach you to run it and deliver it at any New England point; call and you will find it just as advertised. Can be seen and demonstrated at THE BAY STATE MOTOR CAR CO., 15 Berkeley st., near the corner of Tremont st.; tel. Beach 53399. P. S.—Ask to see MR. WRIGHT'S car.

TIRES

Remember we have the largest stock of slightly used tires in Boston—Every one good for big mileage. Mail orders given prompt attention. You get the same fair treatment by mail as if you called personally.

Hearings.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS—In Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners. Boston, February 24, 1919. On the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, under the provisions of Section 3 of Chapter 152 of the General Acts of the year 1918, to authorize the erection, construction and maintenance of a line for the transmission of electricity from Forest Hills in the City of Boston to the sub-station of the company in the Town of Dedham and from Baker Street in said Boston through said City and the Towns of Dedham, Needham, Dover, Natick, Sherborn, Ashland, Framingham and Southboro to the Sudbury dam in said Southboro, in fulfillment of an order of the Board dated September 18, 1918, authorizing the interchange of electricity between said company and the New England Power Company upon the location specified in two plans filed with said Board along and across certain public ways and lands of the cities and towns therein named, across lands and waters belonging to or controlled by the Commonwealth, along and across the property and locations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad, respectively, all as set forth or described in said petition, and for approval of the type of construction and design of said line and the voltage at which it is desired to operate said line, as set forth in said petition,—the Board will give a public hearing to all parties interested at its office, 603 Ford Building, at 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. And the petitioner is required to give notice of said hearing by serving an attested copy hereof upon the Mayor and City Clerk of the City of Boston and upon the Chairmen of the Selectmen and the Town Clerks of the Towns of Dedham, Needham, Dover, Natick, Sherborn, Ashland, Framingham and Southboro, respectively, and upon the Massachusetts Highway Commission, the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board and the Federal Managers of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad, respectively, fourteen days at least before the day fixed for said hearing and by causing a copy hereof to be published in the "Boston Advertiser," the "Boston Transcript," the "Boston American," the "Boston Post," the "Boston Herald," the "Boston Globe," the "Christian Science Monitor," the "Dedham Transcript," the "Needham Chronicle," the "Natick Tribune," the "Natick Citizen," the "Natick Bulletin" and the "Framingham Evening News," in each of said papers once each week for two successive weeks prior to said time of hearing. By order of the Board, ARTHUR D. SNOW, Assistant Clerk. A true copy. Attest: ARTHUR D. SNOW, Assistant Clerk.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS—In Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners. Boston, February 24, 1919. On the petition of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston under the provisions of Chapter 152 of the Acts of the year 1918 for a determination, in connection with an order issued by the Board on September 18, 1918, authorizing said company and the New England Power Company to make the necessary extensions and connections for the interchange of electricity, that a transmission line for said purpose, and for the purpose of supplying electricity to the petitioner and to said New England Power Company, is necessary and will serve the public convenience and is consistent with the public interest, such line to run from Forest Hills in Boston to the sub-station of the petitioner in Dedham and from a point near Baker Street in said Boston through the City of Boston and the Towns of Dedham, Needham, Dover, Natick, Sherborn, Ashland, Framingham and Southboro to the Sudbury Dam in said Southboro, approximately as shown on plan filed with the said petition, the Board will give a public hearing to all parties interested at its office, 603 Ford Building at 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. And the petitioner is required to give notice of said hearing by serving an attested copy hereof upon the Mayor and City Clerk of the City of Boston and upon the Chairmen of the Selectmen and the Town Clerks of the Towns of Dedham, Needham, Dover, Natick, Sherborn, Ashland, Framingham and Southboro, respectively, and upon the Massachusetts Highway Commission, the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board and the Federal Managers of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad, respectively, and upon the New England Power Company fourteen days at least before the day fixed for said hearing, and by causing a copy hereof to be published in the "Boston Advertiser," the "Boston Transcript," the "Boston American," the "Boston Post," the "Boston Herald," the "Boston Globe," the "Christian Science Monitor," the "Dedham Transcript," the "Needham Chronicle," the "Natick Tribune," the "Natick Citizen," the "Natick Bulletin" and the "Framingham Evening News," in each of said papers once each week for two successive weeks prior to said time of hearing. The People Should Pass On The League of Nations

Commenting on Senator Borah's declination of the invitation to dine at the White House, the New York World said:

"In inviting the members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to meet him at dinner next week, President Wilson said that he desired to explain to them the reasons behind each clause of the Constitution of the League of Nations before they began to debate it. But Senator Borah wants no information. It might embarrass him and make it more difficult for him to continue his policy of obstruction. The less he knows about it all, the happier he is and the more certain he is of his position."

Evidently the World assumes that no senator can understand the proposed League of Nations until the President has told him what it is all about.

This is a ridiculous assumption. The proposed Constitution of the League of Nations has been published in full.

We can all read the English language. We all know what the words mean.

Senator Borah says very frankly that he is opposed to the United States joining in any compact or alliance with other Powers, and believes that we should continue to follow the policy which President Washington initiated in the Farewell Address and which the nation has followed ever since up to this very present time.

Now, any man who believes as Senator Borah does bases his belief upon what he deems to be fundamental truths and upon his own understanding of history and of political science.

With those of us who believe, as Senator Borah believes, the doctrine of America for the Americans; the doctrine of non-entanglement in the politics of other nations; the doctrine of attending to our own American business and letting the affairs of other peoples strictly alone, is something more than a mere political doctrine. It is a religion of patriotism, and no man is going to be converted from his religion by being a guest at a dinner party.

The question before the country is not whether or no there shall be a League of Nations. The European Powers can form a League of Nations if they want to do so. That is no particular business of ours one way or the other.

The question for us Americans to decide is whether or not it is to our interest to be a member of this League.

And since that is purely a national question, purely an American question, which we should decide with an eye single to the welfare of America, it follows that there should be no decision on the part of this country until there has been the fullest and freest discussion, until the clearest possible understanding has been reached by all the people, and until the people have had a fair opportunity to express THEIR will and register THEIR decision in a definite way.

In his official capacity Mr. Wilson is the executive head of the Republic, and whenever he speaks as the Chief Executive in his official capacity he is entitled to the obedience of law-abiding citizens. Of course, respect for the President's opinion is universally entertained, but obedience to his dicta is limited strictly to those proclamations of the President, or orders of the President, which direct the enforcement of the laws made by the Congress.

When Mr. Wilson discusses matters of public policy which have not already taken the form of law he is not speaking at all in his official capacity as President, but simply as an individual citizen, no matter how able and enlightened that citizen may be.

We make this distinction between Mr. Wilson's official personality and his individual and private personality because it is going to be a matter of the utmost importance in the discussion of this grave and extraordinary question which must surely be settled either for the welfare or the misfortune of the Republic.

And, indeed, we think that men and newspapers who are of the same mind with the World ought to be able to see that from their very own standpoint American membership in the proposed League of Nations becomes an impossibility.

Because since the Presidency is an elective office an instinctive opposition to three terms makes it almost a certainty that Mr. Wilson will be succeeded by another citizen two years from now. It is as likely as not to happen that the next President will be opposed to American membership in the League of Natjons and will be a strong advocate of a return to the policies of Washington and Jefferson and all their successors. And in that case if it is now a species of disloyalty to oppose Presidential advocacy of our membership in the League of Nations it would then become a species of disrespect and of disloyalty to the government TO ADVOCATE our membership in the League of Nations.

So that if this ridiculous doctrine that opposition to foreign policies advocated by the temporary occupant of the Presidential chair is disrespectful and disloyal is true, why then it follows that loyalty and patriotism are not permanent things based on principle, but temporary things changing with the result of each Presidential election—a preposterous proposition on its face.

And, indeed, we do think that this very shifting character of the personality and the views of the occupants of the White House is a very strong argument against accepting membership in a league of foreign nations with whose purposes and whose conduct and whose decisions the outgoing President was in sympathy and the incoming President may not be in sympathy.

No matter how permanent the alliance between these foreign nations may be, OUR OWN membership could not possibly be permanent so long as it was subject to the fluctuations of public opinion and the fluctuating decisions of party strife and of the quadrennial elections.

It is quite conceivable that if Mr. Wilson should now succeed in pledging the country to membership in this League of Nations the next Presidential election might see a President and a Congress chosen upon a platform of EXPRESSED OPPOSITION to such membership. And in that case there would be nothing for the newly elected administration to do but to notify the other members of the League that a mandate of American withdrawal had been given by the American people.

And upon such a notification of withdrawal from the League it is impossible to say what complications might arise or what demands or threats the other allied Powers might make TO COMPEL our adhesion to the League, even to the extent OF MAKING ALLIED WARFARE UPON US under some of the dangerous provisions of this most dangerous proposed Constitution of the League of Nations.

So that the inevitable result of our giving national assent to the Constitution of this proposed League and national consent to membership in this proposed League would be this:

We would either have to give up our national freedom of discussion and decision so far as this one overshadowing public policy was concerned and practically forbid the people to make that question a subject of future approval or disapproval at the polls, or else we would be obliged to run every four years whatever risk and danger there might be in withdrawing from the League.

And if our membership in this proposed League of Nations can contain no promise of permanency, but does involve a constant threat of disruption and consequent danger of war, what is the League worth to us or to the world as a measure of ensuring the permanency of the present map or the permanency of peace in the world? It is worth just exactly nothing at all.

Good Advertising. Ladies Are Shocked. But Think of Sparta. Mexico's Heart Change.

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

You are going to see an interesting fight between the WILL of one man and the plans of the political party opposed to him. A majority of the Senate, undoubtedly, object to the League of Nations proposition as the President offers it. The President returning, says, "I know what the PEOPLE want. They want this league, and I am going to see that they HAVE it."

All treaties with other nations must be ratified by the Senate or they do not stand. The Senate CAN beat the President's plan if it chooses. The question is will it choose, or will the President's will power win this fight as it has won others?

New York's Woman's Republican Club has started a movement. They want to make dresses more respectable, more modest. High skirts and low waists, they say, are a bad thing for the world. In this very serious moment, "with Bolshevism all about us," the ladies say that women should set a good example.

If those ladies will look at gowns worn under the directoire and at other periods of revolution and strife in history, they will find that women nearly always celebrate widespread turmoil by making their clothes less modest than usual. Why, nobody knows.

Perhaps it is because they were tired of monotony, had to express their feelings in some way, and not being allowed to vote did what they could through the dressmaker.

On the other hand, if Republican ladies will read the history of Sparta, they will be amazed to learn that the most austere, virtuous government actually commanded young women of that day to dress in a fashion that would shock even the most shockless of our century.

Spartan girls, unmarried, wore shirts that were open on the sides to the top of the hips, yet Sparta was a moral country. What would the Republican ladies say to that? Let them pray that the "Bolshevism all around us" will not develop any Spartan ideas.

To advertise well is to demonstrate the fact that you have the goods and can deliver them. The army of the United States demonstrated its fighting power, ability to stand punishment, and, as President Wilson said, "to go only in one direction." Of eight thousand two hundred men in the Fifty-third Brigade, Twenty-seventh Division, from New York, only two thousand eight hundred came out after just thirty days' fighting. Some one will have to write a new Charge of the Light Brigade.

The men did not die in vain. Everybody in Europe knows now what was not known before, that this is a country of fighting young men, not merely of business men and "dollar getters," as the European newspapers said. The fighting and the dying of American soldiers in Europe and THE ADVERTISING so well done there may be more even than the League of Nations to keep this country free from attack for generations to come.

Carranza "pleads for friendship between the United States and Mexico." Good news. The United States wants nothing more than a chance to be friendly with Mexico, if Mexico will be friendly with the United States and with United States citizens who happen to be in Mexico.

This country needs peace in Mexico, with safety for Americans who travel there and for American property honestly acquired.

Mexico needs many things from the United States, money, machinery, school teachers, books, men to direct agriculture and industry.

Mr. Carranza's offer of friendship is welcome, whether it be based on a change of heart since the days when Mexico couldn't bring herself to salute the American flag or whether it be based on a realization of the fact that a country with three million men trained to fight, and twenty thousand flying machine engines ready built, might be an ugly neighbor.

The people of Newark are circulating a petition urging the "Recall," that is to say, the discharge from office of their Mayor.

The Mayor of Newark may be the most amiable, efficient person in the world, although some of the citizens apparently do not think so.

CHEER-UP NOTE

Down East they foresee prosperity. The trustees of the Maine State Fair at Lewiston have just voted to open the 1919 fair on Monday, September 15, and to continue it through the following Friday. This will make it a five-day enterprise instead of four days, as heretofore. The trustees evidently figure that the Maine Staters will have money and appetite for all the fun that's going.

BE GLAD OF THE INCOME BACK OF THE TAX

Secretary Glass of the Treasury asks you to pay your increased war income tax cheerfully. He adds: "It is a shallow kind of patriotism that does not burn brightly in time of peace as well as in time of war."

SPEAKING OF FROGS

Seattle (Wash.) reports frogs joy-riding through its water mains. The Saturday night bath has to be censored first for unwelcome batrachians. The State fish commissioner recommends adding bass and pickerel to the local reservoir to destroy the frogs. But who wants bass or pickerel as bathmates, either? It is interesting to note that the fish commissioner's name is Darwin.

STEALING OUR "STUFF"

State Ornithologist E. H. Forbush notes, among the indications of approaching Spring, the early croaking of frogs.

WORRYING THE PRESS-HOUNDS

Mrs. Wilson's Paris hat, as seen by Boston reporters:

1. "She wore a dull crimson hat."
2. "It was a close-fitting toreau, trimmed with a feather spray in henna shades."
3. "A close-fitting hat of blended purple tones."
4. "It was done completely in aurora color of a deep garnet shade."
5. "She wore a small plum colored toque."

HECTIC REFERENCE

Talk about profanity by proxy. One of the suffragettes on Boston Common shrieked at the police on Wilson Day: "You remember what Lieutenant-Colonel Whittlesey said to the Germans? He told them to go to hell!" Even this fierce citation failed to awe the police. She was arrested with her sister-suffs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Plea for Prisoners

Editor Boston American:

I wish to call to your attention the fact that there are now confined in the Federal prison at Atlanta a number of men convicted, under the Espionage Act, during the stress of war, for their religious convictions. Their chief crime, as far as I see it, lies in the fact that they knew the Scripture too well. I am not of their religious sect but I am an American and believe firmly in freedom, and if they can be convicted for their belief in the Bible then any or all of us could be convicted on the same charge. Every clergyman in the country could be held guilty on the same charge. Do we live in Russia or Germany? What is the use of fighting for democracy if democracy is not safe for the people? It may or may not have been right to confine them during the war, but twenty years is a long time. I would consider it a great favor if you could use a little of your great influence to do a little for these people.

MRS. J. T. NANGLE.

WILSON FIRST GENTLEMAN OF THE WORLD

Simple, and sincere, he never forgot on his great mission abroad that he stood for AMERICA.—Read about it in the Sunday Advertiser and American.

HOW Woodrow Wilson, President of these United States, feted by royalty abroad, set a new precedent of simple, sincere courtesy in place of the formality and court etiquette, always before deemed a social necessity, is told interestingly in next Sunday's Advertiser and American.

He, the "first gentleman of our land," abroad as the representative of this great country, never forgot that it was AMERICA that he stood for, primarily and essentially; and he weighed his every action and word accordingly. With native tact, and a simple friendliness that won everyone, he met every exigency; till now he may be accepted also as "first gentleman of the World."

It has been said that "there is nothing new under the sun." But day after day Science makes new discoveries that give the lie to that hoary saying. This is the latest—Professor R. H. Hite, of the Department of Chemistry of West Virginia, has discovered a method of killing microbes by pressure. He puts the weight of five huge locomotives upon a bottle of milk, and crushes not only the disease-microbes which may infest it, but also the lactic acid germs, so that it will not sour. He can also so sterilize fruits that they do not need heat or sugar to preserve them, and cider so that it does not turn into vinegar.

WHAT IS THE LIMIT OF DECENCY? Can it be fixed by law? Club women over the land believe that it can—and that present dress-conditions make it imperative that it shall be FIXED BY LAW. Skirts a regulation length—no shorter; sleeves likewise; and bodices of a modest cut—exactly stipulated, and not an eighth of an inch lower, or more abbreviated as to back or front or sleeve.

Rider Haggard is outdone by George Gibbs, in the thrilling story of the great Sahara, "The Black Stone." All the mystery of the desert, with love and intrigue and war and treasure to add to its thrills. Superbly illustrated by Edmund Frederick.

Beauty, too—and art. Howard Chandler Christy has never painted a lovelier thing than his conception of "American Ideals"—from President Wilson's 14 points.

And O, those lovely "going out" dresses by Lady Duff-Gordon, the famous "Lucile," shown here for the first time, and fully described by their artistic designer! The very breath of Spring is in them—and the latest note in style.

How one little frail girl—escaped after almost incredible sufferings, from Ravished Armenia, is now doing a big, big bit to help save the remnant of her unhappy people, is another fascinating feature.

And OF COURSE, the Comics—all your favorites!

Next Sunday, in the Advertiser and American.

YOU MIGHT HAVE MARRIED SOMEBODY ELSE

Do you find yourself giving more and more attention to mind pictures which come to you of how fine it might have been for you, from the point of luxuries, had you married money?

Pretty dangerous line of thought. You have no moral right to such visions.

If allowed to continue they may cause you to become so dissatisfied with conditions as they are, and the fact that you have to work for a living, that your real life partner will notice it.

Even intermittently indulged in, your life companion is going to see that your whole interest is not where it should be, and somebody else may indulge in a few thoughts apropos of the subject.

How would you like such day dreams from a standpoint of loyalty, in the one you have married?

Maybe you would be better satisfied and better situated had you married "the other one," but you didn't, and now it is up to you to see that you don't let anyone else guess that you were foolish in judgment.

But, considered from all standpoints, is it not fortunate that you got the one you did?

Dead lucky, old man, everything considered, aren't you?
